SUMMARY.

The "Times" publishes a weighty leading article on the visit of the German Emperor to the King in November.

It comments upon the attempts of Prince Bulow to show that he is exceedingly anxious for cordial relations with Great Britain.

The Miners' Federation has passed a resolution recommending the introduction of legislation for nationalising the mines.

Delegates from foreign shipping federations will meet the British Shipping Federation to concert a defence against trade-unionism.

Lord Rothschild states that stocks were low because Governments all over the world were hitting at capital.

The Bishop of Limerick denounces the secularising attitude of Mr. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, on the education question.

Mr. Walton, Treasurer of Cape Colony, says that the South African colonies were unable to afford federation.

He was, however, impressed with the advantages of unification.

At the Hague Conference the convention regarding the rights and duties of neutrals in time of war was adopted.

An Imperial edict issued at Peking orders the institution of uniform weights and measures throughout China.

The trial of the anti-Japanese rioters at Vancouver is proceeding. One man had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

The exposure of corruption among New York traction companies has culminated in startling testimony before the inquiry commission.

It was stated that a comparatively worthless franchise existing only on paper was sold to the Metropolitan Company for £200,000.

Mr. Jean Gerardy, the distinguished 'cellist, has been married to Miss Amelia M'Quade, of Sydney.

The New Zealand footballers have defeated Bramley by 5 goals 5 tries to 2 tries. The New Zealanders had the upper hand from the start.

The debate on the censure motion was resumed in the Assembly by Mr. O'Sullivan, who said he would vote against the Government.

He looked upon the Government as the most reactionary one that had ever held office in New South Wales.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Nielsen, Beeby, and Ryrie.

Mr. Dooley secured the adjournment, and the House rose at 20 minutes before midnight until Tuesday.

The Premier has called for a report upon Mr. M'Gowen's statements in regard to overpayments to contractors.

The Lord Mayor of Sydney has refused to accord a civic reception to the British rifle team.

The team will be officially welcomed by the State Premier (Mr. Wade) on Monday.

The debate on the wire-netting duty was resumed in Committee of Ways and Means in the House of Representatives yesterday.

Mr. Bruce Smith said he was prepared to vote for placing wire-netting on the free list.

He suggested that the consideration of preferential duties should be postponed until they had dealt with the general tariff.

The question of having a reserve of officers on the medical side of the defence forces is under consideration.

The Prime Minister says there are good reasons why the names of the tenderers for the mail contract should not be made public at present.

The president of the Licensed Victuallers' Association says it is almost certain the increased price for beer will be charged all round.

The Rev. Dr. Fordyce returned by the R.M.S. Moultan yesterday from his visit to the United Kingdom.

He does not think that religious activity is greater in Great Britain than in Australia.

A rural camp school, attended by Sydney and Newcastle schoolboys, is being held at Richmond.

A deputation to the Under-Secretary for Works asked for railway extension from a point on the Great Northern line to Walcha.

Mr. Hanna admitted the arguments were sufficiently strong to justify a careful investigation of the claims.

A disastrous fire broke out at Trundle early yesterday morning. Five buildings were destroyed, the damage being estimated at £2000.

Mr. Deakin, speaking at the Christian Endeavour Convention in Melbourne, said he was always happy to admit the value of missionary work.

The task of civilising the New Hebrides and British New Guinea had been immensely assisted by missionary effort.

A meeting of the Council of the United Labour party in Adelaide carried a motion disapproving of the compromise on the franchise.

The Bishop of Carpentaria says the aborigines in Northern Australia could be Christianised and civilised, and utilised as a means of aiding in the defence of the country.

The Chief Justice, at Bathurst yesterday, condemned the leniency of police magistrates in cases of assaults upon the police.

The police, his Honor said, were a public body whom the law should protect, and those who interfered with them should be severely punished.

At the Queensland Rifle Association's meeting yesterday several members of the British team secured prizes.

The President's, seven shots at 600yds, was won by Major Richardson (Great Britain), with a possible. Another member of the British team was second.

A Transvaal visitor is leading in the King's Aggregate, and is closely followed by a Brisbane rifleman.

The tournament of the Victorian Ladies' Golf Union was concluded yesterday.

The Ladies' Championship was won by Mrs. Gatehouse; Miss Wray (N.S.W.) was fourth.

Dr. Robert Scott, a well-known medical practitioner, died at Summer Hill on Monday.

At the Deniliquin Circuit Court yesterday an aboriginal obtained a divorce from his wife upon the ground of adultery.

The Master Bakers' Association of Melbourne decided to increase the price of bread to 6d per large loaf.

At the Sydney Labour Council last night the statements by the Intelligence Department in regard to immigrants' grievances were denied.

The Sydney Labour Council has referred to the executive a proposal to call a conference on the question of the affiliation of trade unions.

A league has been formed at Singleton to secure the construction of a line of railway from Singleton to Carlingford.

The board of inquiry into the use of electricity in coal mines inspected the Hebburn colliery yesterday.

The Commissioner for Labour says that the state of the labour market continues generally satisfactory.

A strike is threatened at the Stanford-Merthyr colliery, Kurri Kurri.

A man named W. Jackson fell from the top of Martin-chambers in Moore-street yesterday, and died an hour afterwards.

No time is to be lost in replenishing Prospect reservoir from the Cataract dam.

Mr. Austin Fitzpatrick, proprietor of the Bloomfield colliery, was killed at East Maitland yesterday through being thrown from his buggy.

The danger of riding on the footboards of trams was referred to at an inquest yesterday.

A child has died in Gippsland from paralysis brought on by tick poisoning.

A moderate amount of business was effected on 'Change yesterday at late rates.

Silver shares commanded a fair amount of attention, generally at advanced rates. Gold and copper stocks were neglected.

Over 51,000 sheep were marketed at the Homebush yards yesterday, and fully 90,000 are in view for the sales next week.

Weather Forecast.—Squally, dry, and dusty; a few showers over the southern districts.

KEEP A SMALL TIN IN THE HOUSE.

HURRY AND WORRY MUST AFFECT THE LIVER, and, of course, the hot weather coming right on top of your other troubles accentuates the bad effect.

While a person is good health hardly knows that he has a liver, nothing can possibly go right with the one who has liver trouble.

It is easy to tell the symptoms. These are a few of them:—Sick Headache, Dizziness, Yellow Complexion, Heartburn, Unpleasant Taste in the Mouth, Dry Flabby Tongue, and, last, but not least, Irritability of temper.

In hot weather most everyone suffers with their liver more or less, and then is the time to take a course of Dr. Pinnock's

PELTONA PILLS

BEST FOR THE LIVER.

These are the most recent creation of a twentieth century scientist—quite the best medicine for the liver ever introduced.

We know this, and many people have proved it for themselves. Mrs. Elizabeth Coppard, Buckinbah, Yeoval, via Molong, was one, and wrote on July 1st last, as follows:—

"Peltona Pills are the only Liver Pills that during fifteen years' experience I ever found to do any good. I have tried ever so many different kinds, but was so very ill that I could not continue taking them. I also gave some Peltona Pills to my friends, and they say just the same thing. I fully intend going on with them, as they are a blessing to people suffering from liver trouble."

And later, July 8th, 1907, wrote, in reply to a letter of ours:—

"Yes, you may publish my letter. I only hope others may derive the same benefit from Peltona Pills as myself."

Peltona Pills, price 1s per packet. Your chemist or storekeeper should be able to supply you. If he cannot, send us 1s, and we will mail you one direct.

Don't be tempted to accept something said to be just as good as Peltona Pills.

LAW REPORT.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10.

DARLING HARBOUR WHARFS' RESUMPTION COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and Judges Backhouse and Fitzhardinge.)

CLAIM TO £13,368 15s.

A PROPERTY IN SUSSEX-STREET.

Robison and another v Minister for Works.

Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. D. Ferguson, instructed by Messrs. M'Donell and Moffitt, appeared for the claimants; and Mr. Pilcher, K.C., and Mr. J. L. Campbell, instructed by the Crown Solicitor (Mr. J. V. Tillett), for the Minister for Works. This was a claim by John William Boyd Robison and William Boyd Paton against the Minister for Works for compensation in regard to the resumption by the Crown under the provisions of the Darling Harbour Resumption Act of a piece of land having a frontage of 40ft 6in to Sussex-street, and a total depth to Day-street of 57ft 6in. Mr. Shand, in explaining the case, said that the King-street tram now passed the land on the way to the terminus at Erskine-street, and the claimants had for years carried on business there as engineers, ironfounders, etc. They claimed £13,368 15s, but the valuation by the defendant was £5740, which had been tendered and refused. The resumption took place on May 3, 1900, and on July 30 of the same year notice of claim was sent to the Crown, who made a certain offer, which was afterwards withdrawn. A substantial brick building had been erected on the land, and a large amount of machinery was installed there, which, being fixtures, passed to the Crown in the resumption. On April 7, 1905, the valuation now offered was made by the Crown, and in the correspondence that ensued, the Crown Solicitor notified the claimants that the Government valuers had taken into consideration the fact that they had been in possession for some years since resumption without paying rent, and that, therefore, the defendant was entitled to deduct £1500 from the valuation. The claimants, however, submitted that that could not be done, as the Crown must assess the amount of compensation at the time of resumption, including damage for the disturbance of the claimants' business. Claimants also contended that 10 per cent. usually allowed for forced sale should be added to the compensation, and they would show that the value of land in the locality at the time of resumption was £100 per foot.

Evidence was then proceeded with, but before the examination of the first witness had been concluded the further hearing of the case was adjourned to the following day for the purpose of endeavouring to effect a settlement.

SHOP ASSISTANTS' AWARD.

COMMON RULE APPLICATION.

Shop Assistants' Union v Master Retailers' Association and another.

Mr. G. S. Beeby (Messrs. Brown and Beeby, solicitors), appeared for the claimant union, the Shop Assistants' Union, and questioned witnesses in support of his application that the award (made on July 13) should be made a common rule. The rule should, it was asked, be made applicable to all retailers' shop assistants, managers, cashiers, storemen and packers engaged in the retailing of drapery, clothing, mercery, tailoring, hats, boots, millinery, furniture, general furnishing, ironmongery, crockery, fancy goods, sporting materials, and oils and colours, and extend over the metropolitan and suburban area. The townships of Hornsby, Emu Plains, Sutherland, and Liverpool were also included.

The particulars of the matters proposed to be made a common rule were:—The wages to be paid to male and female shop assistants, storemen, packers, boys, and girls, and office assistants; payment of overtime; payment of overtime for such work done on holidays and at night time; payment of wages to casual workers; keeping of time and wages book; the making of a provision to permit inexperienced by infirm workers to work for less than the prescribed minimum wage.

SYDNEY QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Gibson and juries.)

ASSAULT AND ROBBERY.

William Johnson pleaded not guilty to a charge of assaulting Hugh Murphy and robbing him of a watch chain, sovereign purse, and a medal, on August 2. He was defended by Mr. E. E. Abigall.

Mr. Harris, in opening the case, said that at 2 a.m. on the date in question Murphy, who is a tram conductor, was proceeding along Riley-street when two men assaulted him and took his watch and chain from him. On August 12 the chain, which was claimed by Murphy as his, was pawned by the accused, who was identified by the prosecutor as one of his assailants.

A verdict of guilty was returned. The official records showed that the accused was an old offender, having served 13 years in gaol, which included two sentences of five years each. On his own application he was recommended for sentence.

A CHINESE ACQUITTED.

Charlie Wong, who was defended by Mr. E. R. Abigall, pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the residence of Ah Lin on September 5 and stealing 18s in money. After hearing the evidence for the prosecution the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the accused was discharged.

GUILTY OF RECEIVING.

Herbert Arthur Denson pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving a quantity of cutlery, the property of Ida Skinner, well knowing the same to have been stolen. He was remanded for sentence.

NOT GUILTY.

George Bura, an elderly man, pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the residence of William Brown at Paddington and stealing a box containing two gold watches, two rings, and other articles. The jury, without hearing the defence, returned a verdict of not guilty, and the accused was discharged.

ADAMS' ESTATE.

QUESTIONS ARISING OUT OF THE WILL.

"TATTERSALL'S" SWEEPS.

The hearing was continued yesterday in Equity before Mr. Justice Street of an originating summons relating to the will of the late George Adams, of sporting fame. The main points upon which the Court is asked to make a declaration have already been given, but it may be mentioned that a very lengthy affidavit by Messrs. Harvey and Finlay, two of the trustees of the estate, was read in reference to the property of the testator and the business carried on by him during ORDER A SUIT AT LOWE'S BEFORE YOU LEAVE, AND SAVE TARIFF CHARGES.

Although men are not bargain hunters by any means, they are quick to get on to a good thing, and you should not miss the chance of saving money on your suit.

In spite of the enormous stocks we had on hand when the new Tariff, equal to 7s in the £ on woollens, was announced, we are rapidly working them down, and it is inevitable that our prices must shortly be raised.

You should therefore come in right away, and let us book your order at the old before-the-Tariff prices.

It is quite possible that others may offer to make this concession, as they have a way of following Lowe's lead, but in comparing prices you must also give particular attention to the general cut and outturn of your clothes.

Nothing can be cheap unless it is good, and LOWE'S take particular pride in their productions.

Our reputation is built up on years of good work, and good quality is possible in every case, because we have five expert cutters, and our own staff of over 130 operatives, who work under the best Union conditions of labour.

LOWE'S success in Tailoring is no doubt due to the fact that we produce the best of work at marvellously low prices.

We were recently compelled to further extend our Tailoring Department, and it now has the best light and finest equipment in the city.

LOWE'S TWO GUINEA SUITS TO ORDER.

A really good business Suit for city or country wear.

Materials include Scotch designs in Fancy overcheck Tweeds, with a mixture of various new shadings, such as greens, greys, and browns. Smart effects in flannel stripes and fine ribbed serges.

A suit of a grade unobtainable elsewhere under three guineas.

LOWE'S THREE GUINEA SUITS TO ORDER, HAND MADE.

You will probably remember that we originated a really first-class suit to order—hand-made by journeyman tailors in Sydney—at this price. Suits were made at the price before, but they were, and, in fact, still are, purely factory-made garments. For these Suits we have fancy flannel effects in myriads of designs, and several ranges of very elaborate pattern Scotch Tweeds and high-class West of England Worsteds, in all the new colourings. Also first-class Indigo Blue Serges, or nice grey Vicunas. You will find that LOWE'S Three Guinea Suits will compare favourably with those from other places in the city up to £4 10s.

LOWE'S 70s SUITS TO ORDER.

This is a price that we take pride in giving something special for. It is a popular price to pay for a best Suit, and we guarantee to turn you out one equal in every way to any £4 10s or £4 15s Suit in the city. Most of the materials come from the best manufacturers in the West of England, and include elaborate designs in new Fancy Stripes in broad effects. Also a range of superior Flannels in a variety of shades; a choice lot of West of England Worsteds—new broad pattern designs—in the new shades of Green, Snuff Browns, Purple effects, and Greys—different to anything imported before. Also fine Indigo Serges and some of the newest productions of our own Australian Mills. The latter will open your eyes as to what can be made in this country.

LOWE'S FOUR GUINEA SUITS TO ORDER.

At this price you are entitled to a top-notch Suit, and you will get it here. We have an excellent selection of Materials, gathered from the leading woollen mills of the world.

They are mostly imported in small quantities—in many cases only one or two suit lengths of a pattern, and you may rest assured that they will not be seen all over town.

One range standing out boldly in this grade is a lot of very superior West of England Worsteds—nice medium and broad stripe designs in the latest colourings, such as Bright and Olive Greens, Snuff Browns, and Dark Greys, with very stylish interwoven stripes of a variation of colouring, the effect of which is exceptionally fine. We give you a Suit at four guineas you could not duplicate elsewhere under £5 5s.

We make other Suits at 50s and 105s, and can assure you that many of the designs at the higher prices cannot be equalled at other places under seven guineas. We know of cases where even eight and nine guineas is quit; often received for a like Suit made from similar designs to these.

The materials for Two Guinea Suits are water shrunk before being made up, while those for the higher priced Suits, from 63s upwards, are thoroughly shrunk in the manufacture in addition to being shrunk before being made up.

LOWE'S FINE TAILORING.

Yet another advantage in getting your Suit here is that every Coat has LOWE'S Famous Concave Shoulders and Close-fitting Collar—innovations of ours that require only to be seen to be appreciated. These will make your Coat retain its shape indefinitely, and the effect is secured without the use of bulky, spongy wadding.

Read this evidence as to how LOWE'S Coats please their wearers.

"I got a Two Guinea Suit to measure from you two years ago, and the coat has retained its shape wondrously—in fact, is as shapely now as when I first wore it. Your Two Guinea Suits are a marvel of cheapness, and the quality and workmanship cannot be excelled. W. J. H., MARCH P.O., near Orange.

Come in and select your patterns now, and get your Suit at the old before-the-Tariff prices.

If you live in the country, write for the big books of patterns. We pay the freight to any address, and are so sure of the quality of our work that we guarantee you satisfaction or your money back.

BEECHAM'S PILLS.

CONFIDENCE is not won in a day. This truth applies with special force to proprietary medicines. Countless preparations have been placed on the market during the last fifty years, that have been tried and found wanting. They could not establish their claims. Their bid for public confidence was made under false pretences of merit. They were without real value, and they FAILED! BEECHAM'S PILLS have been before the public for over half a century. They have grown in public favour owing to their merit. Now they have a sale of over 6,000,000 BOXES ANNUALLY.

the largest sale of any patent medicine in the world. Great things are claimed for Beecham's Pills, and they fulfil all they promise. There is no exaggeration in the statement that they cure all forms of Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Biliousness, Liver and Kidney Complaints, purify the Blood and give tone to the Nervous System. SPLENDID RACING NUMBER.

SPECIAL COVER: DRAWING BY DOUGLAS FRY.

Although we experienced a depressing Derby Day the pictures in the Sydney Mail of this week hardly suggest such conditions. The double page is occupied by a splendid plate, entitled "Fashion's Brave Effort on a Wet Derby Day." It is a highly attractive picture. There are two other notable "crowd photographs," one showing the two big stands and lawns, and their massed thousands, the other, of the striking and unique picture, is entitled "The Compelling Magnetism of the Betting Ring." Here we look down upon thousands of people edging in and out, all energetically pressing around the bookmakers. The enthusiasm and the feverish anxiety are well suggested. Fred Leist has a page drawing, to which the title has been given "When Moolian Lost the Epsom." Elsewhere we have a series of pictures which may be summed up as follows:—

FINISH OF THE EPSOM.
FINISH OF THE DERBY.
FINISH OF THE METROPOLITAN.
FIRST HURDLE RACE.
PICTURE OF MELODRAMA.
THE DERBY: AT THE TURN.

In addition to the above we regarded it as a fit occasion to revive some memories. Hence we have portraits of the late Hon. James White, the Hon. E. K. Cox, the Hon. S. G. Brown, the Hon. R. Jones, Sir John Lackey, Vincent Dowling, and Alexander Mackellar. There is also a page entitled "Some Champions of Other Days." First is Clove, winner of the First Australian Derby Stakes at Randwick; secondly, Wilberforce, an imported son of Oxford; thirdly, a picture of the great intercolonial three-mile match when Spin (N.S.W.) beat Alice Hawthorne (Vic.); fourthly, Darebin, a V.R.C. Derby and Sydney Cup winner; fifthly, Sting, an Austral-India champion, and a horse of great gameness and beauty; sixthly, the famous Jerrocks.

OTHER FEATURES.

THE NEW PREMIER—THE LOST WARSHIP MEURTHE—EIGHT-HOUR DAY—KEMPSEY AND DISTRICT.

We have a page portrait of the Hon. C. G. Wade, the new State Premier.

The Thrilling Story of the loss of the old French warship Meurthe will give wide interest to an excellent picture of her.

There are some pictures of the Eight-hour Day Procession.

In continuation of our series, "Along the Bogs of the North Coast Railway" we illustrate Kempsey, and there is a special historic article that will greatly interest Macleay River settlers.

SPECIAL ARTICLES AND STORIES, ETC.

The Pastoral Columns include an article by "Lens" descriptive of the rich country in the Scone district, with special reference to the chief estates.

In the Agricultural Section many subjects are dealt with, and the week's news of Australian rural affairs handled in chatty style.

"Milroy" supplies an extensive budget of comment and general Gossip concerning men and horses that figured at the A.J.C. Carnival, as well as other matters of sporting interest.

On the Australian Short Story Page:—"The Abduction of Nettleton," by Ernest Favenc; and "At the Slip-rails," by M. E. W. On the Young Folks' Page:—Hoppity's Exploits, No. IV., by Walter H. Rose.

There are Football Notes on the Final of the Australian Game between Sydney and Newtown; Cricket News by "Shortslip;" Baseball Notes; Golf Gossip; Dramatic and Musical Notes; Poultry and Kennel News; Stock Exchange News; Rifle, Rowing, and Swimming Notes. Some recent books are dealt with in the Library Page.

The series of interesting Reminiscences by "Thormanby," the famous English writer, is continued. "The Wasting of Jockeys" is the article dealt with this week.

An article on the concluding play in the recent Championship Golf Tournament at Sandringham, including the Ladies' Championship, will be of exceptional interest to all Golfers.

A descriptive account of the Kempsey and Macleay districts contains a lot of information.

BUTTER GRADING.

ACTION IN QUEENSLAND.

There has been considerable agitation and controversy in Queensland over compulsory butter grading, in the course of which considerable difference of opinion has been expressed. On the one side the dairy expert (Mr. G. S. Thomson) states: "The inspection of butter by the State Government is exercising a telling effect on the harmful conditions which to some extent were the outcome of bitter antagonism between factories to increase their cream supply. Through this injustice to the industry, the farmer would be a heavy sufferer were it not for the protection he is being afforded by the State classification of butter, which is steadily strengthening the confidence of the London merchants and British consumers in the true value of Queensland brands. Doubtless past experience has made the British buyer shy of our methods and practices, and naturally he demands the truth as to the quality of his purchases, which at last is being given effect to by affixing the grade of the butter on the boxes. As might be expected, this does not meet with the approval of a section of the manufacturers and their agents, who desire to return to those days when better facilities for a more rapid acquisition and profits were available. It is now the producers' turn to reap the reward to which he is justly entitled. Grading has come to his rescue."

Against this Mr. L. A. M'Intyre, manager of the Farmers' Co-operative Distributing Company of Queensland, who has taken a leading part in the agitation, writes:—"The system of butter grading as conducted in Queensland, instead of being beneficial, has been quite useless as far as lifting the quality of butter is concerned. Whatever improvement has been effected is chiefly due to the enforcement of more regular delivery of cream by a number of our factory proprietors, managers, and directors, and to the improved systems of cooling and general treatment of the cream. I have had the fullest opportunity during the past two years to judge as to the results of butter grading as carried out here, and if it possessed half the advantages claimed by its advocate, Mr. Thomson, I would be one of its stanchest supporters, but when I see so much waste of energy in the inspection and classification of butter, without any useful instruction accompanying it, I feel bound to condemn it. Our producers and manufacturers offer no objection to the inspection and grading of butter, but they claim that the only advantage to be gained is that information and instruction should be passed back to our factory managers by those entrusted with the inspection, and so far this has not been done. Certainly the graders furnish certificates containing remarks regarding flavour, colour, texture, etc., but the remarks are usually so vague that managers place very little importance on these certificates. In New Zealand, where compulsory grading has been in force for some years, the graders are all thoroughly capable and practical men, who have gone through the whole course of factory education, and if certain defects are found to exist, they visit the place of manufacture, and make the closest investigation of the causes of the defects, and offer every assistance to the managers and butter makers to set matters right. In Queensland nothing of this useful work is to hear of. I do not hesitate to say that the British buyer places little importance on grade stamps, and that he pins his faith to the 'tryer' every time, and buys on the basis of quality as he finds it when the butter is landed. If a butter which bears a first grade stamp turns out a second quality, no amount of persuasion by the seller can force the buyer to pay the price of first grade, and there is no protection whatever afforded to the producer. On the other hand, if, as very often happens, a butter is graded lower than it should be, the buyer uses this as a lever against the seller, and further, it gives an agent (were he so disposed) the opportunity of shielding himself behind the errors of the graders."

To support his views Mr. M'Intyre refers to the opinions of four leading London agents, all of whom stated that they had not been able to get higher prices for butter branded "first grade superfine" than they would have done if the butter had not been so branded, nor were they as salesmen assisted in any way in selling butter sent on consignment by reason of the grade marks being branded on the boxes. These opinions were obtained with reference to Victorian butter. On the other hand, forcible opinions have been obtained as to the value of grading, it being stated that the quality of Queensland butter had risen considerably during the past few years, which was attributed to the grading.

Last month, as an outcome of the feeling prevailing, a number of representatives of the co-operative and proprietary dairy companies waited upon the Minister of Agriculture, and asked that grading be made optional, as is the case in other Australian States. The following reply has been received from the Minister, from which it will be seen that the Government has wisely resolved to maintain compulsory grading:—"The main points raised by the deputation were:—

"An objection to the present system of grading, and

"The duties of cream inspectors.

"With regard to the former, it is to be remembered that the position of Queensland is different to that of the other States. The Commerce Act is voluntary, and the Queensland Dairy Produce Act is compulsory, and so is still in force, but by an agreement with the Federal Government the forms and stamps required by the Commerce Act are used. In the southern States, therefore, it is optional with the exporters whether the grading mark is applied to a box of butter, but marking as required by the Queensland Dairy Produce Act is compulsory.

"The main objection to the grading was, as the Minister understands it, to the system, and not the actual grading, though reference was made to the need of a common basis throughout Australia. The points for the different classes, as provided by the Commerce Act, will probably be adopted here, but the Minister cannot agree with the proposal to abandon the class grades on boxes. It is a good advertisement to the buyer that Queensland is endeavouring to place only the best goods upon the market, and it is thought that if the factories would not indiscriminately mix different grades of butter in consignments bearing their best brands the objections to the present system would soon disappear. It is quite true that butter graded here may not open up in the same class in London, but this is not to be attributed to the grading, but to the system of manufacture, due, perhaps, to competition, under which a line of butter is not made from cream of similar quality. The statement made that reports from London show that no notice is really taken of the grading here, and that practically its effect does not amount to anything, is not borne out by reports received by this department, copies of some of which are attached. Were it so, it would follow that grading here would not affect trade in London.

"The cream inspectors are practical men, and their services are at the disposal of factory managers for instruction. They have carried out the purpose for which they were appointed successfully. Their success would have been much more marked had the sound and practical advice given by them been followed, as, for instance, advice against the blending of sound and unsound cream in one vat, imperfect working, the non-cleaning of utensils, insanitary matters, etc. These matters alone, if attended to, would have repaid the cost of the inspectors many times."

ITEMS.

The attention paid to the sheep breeding industry in New Zealand is shown by the complete and detailed statistics issued by the New Zealand Government. The annual tables prepared at the instance of the New Zealand Government supply the number of sheep in the Dominion and in different districts and the size of the flocks, the number of sheep of different breeds, and a complete classification of rams, wethers, breeding ewes, dry ewes and lambs, as well as anticipations for the future.

A farmer in Broadmeadows has been very successful in his efforts to eradicate onion weed, which is becoming a serious pest on the pasture lands of the southern portions of Victoria. During the month of September he ploughed a paddock and thoroughly cultivated it by means of disc harrows and tooth harrows at intervals of three or four days, with the result that the onion weed bulbs were raked to the surface and destroyed by the sun's rays. They are now lying on the surface as if they had been sown there. The point about the success of the experiment is that it has been held that instead of destroying the pest, cultivation would only cause it to thrive more vigorously.

Mr. A. W. Woodard, who has been many years in Canada, employed by the Government supervising and organising the dairying industry of the Dominion, is at present in Melbourne. In the course of conversation with a representative of the "Age," Mr. Woodard contrasted some of the methods in vogue in the Dominion with those which he finds in practice here. In Canada, what are known as open markets for butter and cheese are held in all the larger cities two or three times a week. The output of the factory is taken direct to the market place, and as the auctioneer announces the quantities available, the buyers bid against each other for whatever they require. Assuming that the price bid for the product of one or more factories—or for any fraction of that product—is 10d per lb, it is optional for the seller to refuse the amount as not high enough, and the "lot" is then put up again. Eventually, of course, the highest bidder secures it. The soul of the system is open competition in an open market, and he maintains that the result must be a better return to the producer than he can hope to gain under the more closed in system that rules here, where the practice is for the factory management to hand the butter over to the agent or middleman, who transfers it in his turn to the London market. The factory manager does not receive the benefit of any local eagerness to buy. In fact, the whole arena of competition is transferred to London, and in consequence of the introduction of numerous third persons, the butter producer loses some portion, at any rate, of what should be a fair and legitimate return. Such, at least, is the view of the position taken by Mr. Woodard, who maintains that the practice followed in Canada is the one that should be followed here. As regards other matters, Mr. Woodard does not claim that Canada has much to teach Australia. He is even willing to admit that in respect of the size and up to dateness of its butter factories, the Dominion may have something to learn from this portion of the Commonwealth.

We have been shown a specimen of oranges grown by Mr. A. H. Woodburry, Mangrove Creek, Hawkesbury River, in a deep, dark, sandy loam on a clay subsoil. They are of the seedling variety raised in the Paterson River district. The trees are from 13 to 14 years old, and for size, colour, and flavour the oranges are an excellent example of what can be grown on the Hawkesbury River.

In the course of a lecture given before members of the Young P. and A. Society on "Dried Fruits," Mr. R. Thornber stated that the best raisin grapes to grow were Muscat of Alexandra for ordinary pudding raisin, the Gordo Blanco for the table, and the sultana or seedless fruit and the Zante for currants. It would pay to manure the vines with bonedust, as thereby the size of grape was much increased.

LAND SELECTION.

The following statement shows the lands selected under the Crown Lands Acts during the 20 weeks from January 1 to October 2, 1907:—

FORESTRY COMMISSION.

The Forestry Commission resumed the taking of evidence at Parliament House yesterday, under the presidency of Mr. Alex. Kethel, M.L.C.

George Valder, commercial agent for New South Wales in South Africa, stated that when he first went to South Africa little or no timber was known of on Umbilo, but as time went on more and more was learned of them, the result being that hardwood from this State had proved more than an equal competitor for the importations from other parts. Engineers at the Cape had written to the Railway Commissioners inquiring what were the best sleepers. The sleeper most recommended by everybody was ironbark. Next to railway, wharf construction, and mining purposes, the demand for timber grown in New South Wales came for builders' requirements. Jarrah (a Western Australian wood) was not considered equal to ironbark. The former was showing up badly for sleepers. It seemed liable to dry-rot and to the attacks of white ants. Practically the whole of the hardwood imported into South Africa from eastern Australia came from New South Wales. The hardwood trade with South Africa rested between Western Australia, New South Wales, and Java, each having about one-third. Owing to the shortness of supplies of hardwood from this State, trade was being lost. Weight (and consequently higher freights) was against our timbers for mining purposes in South Africa.

Charles Walter Smith, M. Inst. C.E., Superintending Engineer for Water Supply, in the employ of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, stated that it was necessary to go in for forest-culture in catchment areas where no artificial retardation works existed, and where it was desirable to extend the flow of water over as long a period as possible, as in the case of the Nepean and Cordeaux. It seemed, with the probability of a Forest Department being established on vigorous lines, that the catchment basins of all water supplies throughout the State should form the base of its initial operations. The first step should be the resumption of all alienated lands. Then would follow the establishment of nurseries. Although the forest might have, on the whole, but little appreciable effect in increasing the rainfall and the annual run-off, its economic importance in regulating the flow of the streams was beyond computation. The great indirect value of the forest was the effect which it had in preventing wind and water erosion, thus allowing the soil on hills and mountains to remain where it was formed, and, in other ways, providing an adequate absorbing medium at the sources of the watercourses of the country. It was the amount of water that passed into the soil, not the amount of rainfall, that made a region garden or desert.

The commission adjourned to the following day.

CROWN LAND SALE.

COFF'S HARBOUR.—Fourteen allotments of Crown land, averaging about half an acre each, situated near the police station, were offered to-day by the Crown Land Agent. Very good prices indeed were realised, two bringing £40 each.

PRICE OF MILK.

"One Who Knows" writes:—It was with great interest I read the other week in your paper a meeting of suburban dairymen and the managers of the different milk companies to consider the matter of raising the price of milk 1d a quart in Sydney. This, I thought, was a step in the right direction. Knowing, as I do, the very great expense the milk producers are under at the present time in procuring forage for their stock, and more especially the country dairymen that have to come to the Sydney markets for feed to keep their stock going. But my great surprise a little later I heard from a country dairyman that the Sydney milk companies had sent circulars to each of their suppliers offering 1d a gallon more for their milk on account of the dry weather. What generous managers the Sydney milk companies have! Just fancy, a company putting through ten thousan gallons of milk a day put an extra 3d a gallon in their own pocket on account of the dry weather? Will the dairy farmers ever wake up to their own interests? I feel sure there is not a dairy farmer supplying milk to the different companies in Sydney that is not losing money at the present time, and if this dry weather continues to the end of the year they will be absolutely ruined. Well, as far as they are concerned, personally I say serve them right. It is the poor wives and families I pity that have to work 16 hours out of the 24 for seven days in the week, and for nothing but a bare living.

MEETINGS OF FARMERS.

GRAFTON.—At the last meeting of the Clarence River Farmers' Union Mr. A. H. Garven was elected president, Mr. W. A. Bull treasurer, and Mr. T. F. Bryant secretary. A letter was read from the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, stating that they were not prepared to say what price they would pay for cane in the event of a bounty on cane and excise being abolished. Resolutions were carried urging the Government to have the ferry punts of the State classed as national works, that the improvements to the Clarence entrance be recommenced forthwith, and that the Government provide for the protection to river banks on a systematic scheme.

SHEARING.

BARRABA.—Piedmont station starts shearing this week. Forty-five thousand sheep are to be shorn.

A DESTRUCTIVE FROST.

QUEANBEYAN.—The apricot and other early fruit crops in many parts of the district have been completely destroyed by heavy frosts.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

ALBURY.—Notwithstanding the parched up condition of some parts of the district, there are localities looking fairly well. At Jindera, for example, the odd showers from time to time experienced have proved sufficient to keep the crops growing, and so far as can be judged by present indications there is reason to anticipate a fair harvest. Feed, too, in the same locality is making excellent growth, and the stock are improving in condition.

BROKEN HILL.—For not travelling his flock of sheep the requisite six miles per day, George Howell, drover, was at Silverton fined £1 and costs, and for trespassing on the Silverton common £2 10s and costs.

LIVERPOOL, Thursday.—Boisterous weather conditions are again being experienced, a strong westerly wind having been blowing for the past few days. The change on Monday was only responsible for a slight rainfall, which had little or no beneficial effect. A scarcity of water prevails in some parts of the district, the creeks and waterholes being in a dried-up condition; while there is almost an entire absence of grass, and the fodder crops, some of which are being mowed, are stunted as a result of the continued spell of dry weather.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,
'This is my own, my native land!'"

IT IS OFTEN SAID

that "there is no friendship in business," and that sentiment has no place in commerce! And like a good many other sayings these two are false. On the contrary, there is a good deal of friendship in business, and the friends made in and through business transactions are generally those whose friendship is worth having—men whose word is their bond, whose uprightness and integrity are both an inspiration and an example.

And there is one sentiment which finds a worthy place in the commerce of all nations, and that is loyalty. We surely possess such a sentiment in Australia, for we insist on a "white Australia" and do all in our power to help on the establishment of native industry.

MARRICKVILLE

TWEEDS AND WORSTEDS

are a fair specimen of home growth—they are made by Australians for Australians from pure Australian Wool. They improve in quality every year. To-day it may be said without fear of contradiction they are equal in WEARING QUALITY with anything imported. By supporting this industry, by wearing clothes made from Marrickville Tweeds or Worsteds, you are helping to build up the wealth and prosperity of Australia. You are helping on the common wealth of all those who live and work beside you. It is your duty, and it should be also your greatest pleasure to do this.

ENGINEERING ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Engineering Association of New South Wales was held at the Royal Society's House, Elizabeth-street, last evening. There was a good attendance.

The annual report and balance-sheet were adopted. The following were elected as office-bearers for the coming year:—President, H. H. Shirrs; vice-presidents, Messrs. J. Anderson and E. J. Erskine; hon. treasurer, Mr. John Sands; hon. secretary and editor, Mr. H. V. Abbott; members of council, Messrs. T. Brown, A. Christie, A. Fairweather, A. H. Friend, W. H. Gernon, R. Grant, James Kidd, James Macartney, and R. Steel.

At the conclusion of the annual meeting Mr. J. W. Bragg delivered an address entitled "The Economy of Fuel." A discussion followed, in which the following participated:—Messrs. Fell, Kidd, Sinclair, Shirrs, Gurman, and Baldour.

VICE-REGAL GARDEN PARTY.

Yesterday afternoon the beautiful grounds of the State Government House, Rose Bay, presented a most picturesque and animated scene, for nearly 2000 guests were entertained by his Excellency the Governor and Miss Rawson at a garden party, which proved a most enjoyable gathering. The day was beautifully fine, and the grounds and the flower beds were all seen to the best advantage. Refreshments were served in a large marquee erected on the lawn, and also on the lower tennis ground, and a band played a bright selection of music during the afternoon. His Excellency and Miss Rawson received their guests on the verandah, Captain Wilson, A.D.C., and Captain Robertson Clark, A.D.C., being in attendance. Lieutenant A. C. Rawson and Captain Oswald Watt were assisting. Miss Rawson wore a cream chiffon dress with a deep embroidered border of roses, and flounces of blonde lace with a cross over bodice, trimmed with touches of the same lace, and a white tulle hat with white poppies. Lady Fawkes wore a Pompadour taffetas silk with touches of heliotrope and black lace, and a toque of green leaves and shaded heliotrope roses. Lady Darley wore violet taffeta, with a toque to match. Miss Darley, mouse-grey voile, with toque and boa en suite. Lady Barton was in pale grey crepe-de-chine and a rose-pink toque. Miss Barton, white embroidered muslin, and a floral hat. Lady Suttor, black and white. Mrs. Oswald Watt, white embroidered muslin, and a white lace hat with pink roses, and a lace drape. Lady Stephen, black and white striped taffetas, white hat with pink roses and feathers. Miss Saumarez-Smith, dark blue and a floral hat, and her sister was in cream voile and a black hat with feathers. Mrs. Burdekin wore a mignonette green chiffon voile, trimmed with pale blue lace and touches of pink roses, and a picture hat with black and white feathers. Miss Burdekin, shell-pink striped gauze and a floral hat. Mrs. Alec Hay, peach-coloured crepe-de-chine, and a hat of the same shade. Mrs. Ewan Fraser, pale grey, with long black gloves and a small black hat with feathers. Mrs. David Anderson, black and white chiffon, and a Tuscan straw hat with feathers and a cluster of violets. Mrs. MacCormick, white muslin with a border having bands of graduated spots in black, and a white hat with moss rosebuds and stalks. Miss Vaughan, Pompadour chiffon, and a blue hat with a single pink rose. Miss Wallace, biscuit-coloured voile and a grey hat with blue feathers. Mrs. Wade, black and white striped voile, trimmed with Oriental embroidery and Irish crochet, and a brown hat with cherries and roses. Mrs. Ashton, Native blue, with flot lace, and a green hat with loops of shaded ribbon. Mrs. S. W. Moore, cream voile, and a white hat with feathers and flowers. Mrs. Allen Taylor, cinnamon brown silk, and a hat with shaded feathers. Mrs. G. B. Simpson, black satin striped silk, and a black hat with roses and feathers. Lady Harris, a Pompadour chiffon dress, with a floral toque and a long white feather. Lady Salomons, black silk, and a heliotrope-coloured bonnet. Mrs. John Hay, black silk and lace over white, and a floral bonnet. Mrs. Herbert Marks, a cream lace dress, and a black hat. Mrs. Bowker, black striped muslin, and a black hat with feathers and pink roses. Mrs. Corbett, white Pompadour chiffon, with a deep blue border, and a white hat with white feathers. Mrs. P. H. Morton wore pale blue. Mrs. H. Levy, cream broderie anglaise and Irish crochet, made in semi-empire fashion, and a picture hat. Mrs. Macarthur Onslow, white crepe-de-chine, Tuscan hat with white feathers and pink roses. Miss E. P. Walker, pale pink floral muslin, trimmed with lace, and a pink scarf, worn over the shoulders, fastened in front with a cluster of natural "Paul Jones" roses, her white hat being trimmed with the same kind of pink rose. Miss Macarthur Onslow was in pale grey. Mrs. Walter Hall, black Chantilly lace over white. Amongst others present were:—His Excellency the Admiral, the Primate, General Gordon, Colonel and Mrs. Bartlett, Captain Napier, Sir James and Lady Fairfax, Mrs. and the Misses Lingen, Judge Backhouse, Madame and Mlle. Pognon, Mr. and Mrs. Audrey Cook, Professor and Mrs. MacCallum, Dr. John Hay, Mr. and Mrs. Kilburn Scott, Dr. Grace Boelke, Dr. Stuart Mackay, Rev. Willoughby, Flower, Mrs. and Miss Flower, the Misses Knox, Hon. C. G. Wade, Hon. J. Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. J. EGG-LAYING COMPETITION.

BEROWRA.

Despite drought conditions and the absence of green food, the hens at the "Sydney Morning Herald" egg-laying competition at Berowra made a good performance for the first ten days of the present month. The sixty pens laid a total of 2486 eggs, an average of over 40 for each pen in the competition. Messrs. Padman and Craig's Leghorns did best with 50 each, D. A. Sturrock's Black Orpingtons being just one egg less. Mr. Wright's Orpingtons, which have kept at the head of affairs for several months, have had to give place to the South Australian Leghorns. Several of the other competitors have also changed their positions. Appended are the totals to last evening:—

BIRTHS.

GARLING.—September 20, 1907, at Dunoon, Forbes, to Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Garling—a son.

DEATHS.

MACKAY.—October 9, 1907, at her residence, Hunter's Hill, Eliza Clunes Mackay, wife of the late Patrick Mackay, of Burnett River, Queensland, and Hunter's Hill.

O'SULLIVAN.—At her late residence, No. 823 Bourke-street, Surry Hills, Mary O'Sullivan, relict of the late Timothy O'Sullivan, in her 71st year. Rest in peace.

WHITEHEAD.—October 10, 1907, at his late residence, Laycock-road, Penshurst, Edmund Whitehead, aged 70 years. At rest. By request, no flowers.

IN MEMORIAM.

DICKMAN.—In loving remembrance of my dear husband and our father, Charles Henry Dickman, who died 11th October, 1905, at Sydney Hospital, aged 51. Inserted by his loving wife and three children.

HAYES.—A loving tribute to the memory of our dear wife and mother, Harriet Hayes, who died October 11th, 1904, aged 63 years and 11 months. Do not ask us if we miss her, there is such a vacant place. Inserted by her loving husband and son, James and William Hayes.

HAYES.—A tribute of love to the memory of our dear mother, Harriet Hayes, who died October 11th, 1904, aged 63 years and 11 months.
Worthy of lasting love was she
From those she left behind;
A better wife could not be found,
A mother more true and kind.
All you who have your mother,
Love her while you may,
She will not always linger here,
Too soon she will pass away.
Inserted by her sorrowing daughter and son-in-law, Sid and Jessie Redwin.

HAYES.—A loving tribute to the memory of my dearly loved mother, Harriet Hayes, who died October 11th, 1904, aged 63 years 11 months.
A mother so kind you ever knew,
My tears start afresh at remembrance of you;
Hard was the blow that compelled me to part
From my mother so near and so dear to my heart.
Inserted by her loving daughter, Amber Hayes.

HAYES.—A tribute of love to the memory of our dear mother, Harriet Hayes, who died October 11th, 1904 (from cerebral hemorrhage), aged 63 years 11 months.
Still we mourn her, still we miss her,
Deep within our hearts enshrined.
Lives the memory of our mother,
Always faithful, true, and kind.
Inserted by her sorrowing daughter and son-in-law, James and Rose Nicholls.

HAYES.—A tribute of love to the memory of our dear mother, Harriet Hayes, who died October 11th, 1904, aged 63 years and 11 months. It was hard to part with one we loved. Inserted by her sorrowing sons, James and Stephen Hayes.

HAYES.—A tribute of love to the memory of my dearly loved mother, Harriet Hayes, who died October 11th, 1904, aged 63 years and 11 months. A greater trial was never known nor sorrow more severe. Inserted by her loving son, George Hayes.

HAYES.—A tribute of unfading love to the cherished memory of our dear mother, Harriet Hayes, who died from paralysis on October 11th, 1904, aged 63 years and 11 months.
Gone from us, how sadly we miss you,
My own darling mother, your memory we'll keep;
Never till life ends shall we ever forget you,
Dear one, our hearts is the place where you sleep.
Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, Fred. and Ethel Matthews.

JOSHUA.—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Alice, who departed this life October 11th, 1903.
On that bright golden shore we shall wander,
With the loved and the blest by our side,
Oh, the heart in its grief loves to ponder
O'er the joys that we know there abide.
Oh, how sweet will it be in that beautiful land,
So free from all sorrow and pain,
With songs on our lips and harps in our hands,
To meet one another again.
Inserted by her parents, Henry and Harriett M'Main.

MATTS.—In loving memory of Emanuel Matts, who departed this life on 11th October, 1905, at his daughter's residence, 51 George-street North, aged 78. Inserted by his daughter and son-in-law, Ada and Jack Mitchell. Never forgotten.

MORRIS.—In loving memory of our dear father, Richardson Morris (late Sergeant Morris, of Penrith), who departed this life October 11, 1905. Inserted by his loving daughters, Beatrice, Brayne, and Pearl Olson.

PARKES.—A tribute of love to the memory of my dearly loved husband, Thomas Parkes (dear dad), who died October 11th, 1904, in his 47th year. Inserted by his loving wife, Mary E. Parkes.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own.
One in work, joy, and sadness,
Death parted, now alone.

PARKES.—In sad but loving memory of our dear dad, Thomas Parkes, who departed this life October 11th, 1904. Sleep on, dear dad, and take thy rest, we miss you most who loved you best. Inserted by his loving daughter and son-in-law, Fanny and Len. Halstead.

PARKES.—In sad but loving memory of our dear father, Thomas Parkes, who departed this life October 11th, 1904. Sleep on, dear dad, and take thy rest, we loved thee well, but Jesus loved thee best. Good night. Inserted by his loving sons, Will and Tom.

PARKES.—In loving memory of my more than son, Thomas Parkes, who died October 11th, 1904, at his residence, 7 Dalphin-street, Randwick. God is love. Inserted by his loving mother-in-law, A. Sadler.

PARKES.—In loving memory of our dear brother-in-law, Thomas Parkes, who died October 11th, 1904. Dearly loved, sadly missed. Inserted by his loving brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Thomas and Annie Atkins.

SILO.—Of your charity, pray for the soul of Bernard G. Silo, who departed this life 11th of October, 1900, aged 22 years.
O sacred heart of Jesus, have mercy on his soul.
Inserted by his loving mother and sisters, C. Silo.

SAVINGS BANK EXTENSION.

We were able to give information yesterday of the proposed extension of the Government Savings Bank by establishing branches in the country. This was connected with the side of the institution's activities in making advances to settlers—forwarding the Government's plans for rendering closer settlement more effective. Yet it is as well to scrutinise the two propositions somewhat closely, because not so long ago we heard suggestions that the Federal Government was inclined to retaliate upon the Government of this State for certain things said and done at the Brisbane Conference of Premiers. Sir John Forrest hinted that there might be a move on the part of the Commonwealth to take over the Post-office Savings Banks, and at once it was perceived that a very drastic change was possible in the relation of the savings of the community to the State Treasury. We are not told that the proposal to establish branches of the Government Savings Bank throughout the country has anything to do with possible developments of Federal policy, but there is no reason why the matter should not be kept in mind. If the State is simply easing the congestion at the head office, as is stated, the extension now being arranged is perfectly legitimate. That it may help later on to meet a move from Melbourne to absorb the savings of the people of New South Wales is an added advantage; but this should not be the main object, however much we may be inclined to resent an attack upon our preserves. To start expensive branches of the Savings Bank in country districts before they are wanted would not be reform financing, and if the community were not prepared when the time came to stand by the State against the Commonwealth in the matter of savings conveniences through the Post Office we should soon be in sorry plight.

On the other side of the question, assuming that the Government Savings Bank is doing legitimate business, we have to consider how far the Commissioners are likely to compete unfairly with the ordinary financial institutions. The State has accepted the principle of assisting struggling settlers with cheap money. It was to give effect thereto that the Savings Bank was vested in Commissioners, endowed with special powers for obtaining and lending the necessary funds; and we have consistently urged that help so afforded would be of great value both to the needy individual farmer and to the community as a whole. The idea, of course, was to provide, to some extent the facilities and advantages afforded by the people's land banks of Germany, Italy, and other countries, but making the State through the Commissioners give the needful sense of co-operation. Advances from the Government Savings Bank are understood not to be made for profit, and they are to be made in aid of needy settlers who are prevented by the nature of their land titles and for other reasons from obtaining cheap money through the banks in the ordinary way. The very reason for the existence of the Savings Bank as a loan bank, as was admitted when the present law was passed, lies in the need there is for helping men on the land through the trying first years of settlement. They have no security upon which to obtain loans from the banks, yet unless there are means of financing them during the years of struggle they must either rely upon the local storekeeper or come to grief. That is not a position which the State can accept, especially in view of the general feeling that the future of the State is bound up with an ever greater amount of small settlement. Hence the new measures of the Savings Bank, and with good administration we have no doubt they will be found widely beneficial.

THE MURRAY WATERS.

The Murray Waters Bill is now before the South Australian Parliament for ratification, following the agreement arrived at by the Premiers of that State, New South Wales, and Victoria. The carrying of the second reading in Adelaide marks a definite step towards practical accomplishment in this direction at last. Looking at the matter from that standpoint, and without reference to details for the moment, the fact is one on which the different States interested may very well congratulate themselves. For we must make a beginning, and this most important national question has been left in the academic stage of discussion far too long. Every year millions of tons of water are emptied uselessly and wastefully into the sea because we have not taken the business of conservation or irrigation in hand in earnest. That water, if prudently stored and judiciously used, would render Riverina independent of droughts. Until we take such steps, and carry out some effective scheme, we shall be as much at the mercy of rainless spells and dry seasons as we have been from the beginning. It is humiliating to think of the ignorance, the indifference, and the sloth which have allowed such a condition of things to continue so long. Millions of public money have been collected in revenue since we began to govern ourselves, and it is not too much to say that a large proportion of this public tribute has been foolishly spent. Had a portion of it been devoted to the truly national work of saving the Murray and Darling waters this State, at all events, would be in a far different position from that which is its lot to-day.

But if we have wasted the past the present and future belong to us, and it is for us now to make use and provision for them. So far as the division of the waters of this particular river are concerned, it is clear that the States will have to work together in a fair and conciliatory spirit. "They were prepared to trust fellow-Australians to deal equitably with the requirements of down-stream settlers," said several members during the course of the debate in the South Australian Parliament. This is the spirit in which the matter must be approached, and it is rather humiliating to think that joint action has been delayed so long because of mutual jealousies. We want no over-reaching in this business, but a fair national policy of give-and-take in that broad Australian spirit which should be ready to sink petty sims when the general good is at stake. In another part of to-day's issue we print a circular addressed to members of the New South Wales Parliament on this Murray waters question, which seems to point to our getting rather the worse of the bargain, as usual, in our chaffering with Victoria. We stand committed to an undertaking to divert no more of these waters than the proportion of 1.70 to 1.00 by Victoria. Of course that agreement as signed by the late Premier was tentative, and subject to ratification by the Legislatures as in the cases of South Australia and Victoria. What the House will do about it remains to be seen, and it will not do to jeopardise the understanding by unnecessary differences. But whatever we consent to, we must so consent with our eyes open. Parliament can be depended on to maintain the rights of the State without raising up any vexatious obstacles in the way of the consummation of this national and necessary work.

THE FALL IN STOCKS.

Lord Rothschild has suggested, so it is reported in our cablegrams this morning, that stocks have fallen because Governments all over the world are hitting at capital. This fall is a matter which has been attracting attention everywhere; and in the great centres of finance there has been endless controversy as to the cause of the collapse in the capital value of certain classes of securities. It is a matter of special concern to Australia, because at one time our stocks were quoted as shocking examples of insecurity. Critics like Mr. A. J. Wilson never ceased to point the finger at us, and even now they delight to take up their parable at our expense when some form of shocking extravagance has to be dealt with. But Lord Rothschild helps us to remember that Australia has risen in the scale, or at any rate if her stocks are quoted at comparatively low rates she is in very good company. Moreover, we do not forget that we are now on the trustee list, and are supposed to be helping to depress Consols by providing good security at better rates of interest. If Lord Rothschild is right we are, however, suffering under a world-wide attack upon capital, since all stocks seem to be under one influence—an influence of depression. Is he right? Is it not clear, on the contrary, that money like other commodities has gone up in price? Is there not a greater competition everywhere for the use of capital? Do not Australian banks find it more profitable to keep £20,000,000 in London than to leave it comparatively idle in the Commonwealth, because of the general competition?

If these questions are to be answered in the affirmative, and we think they must be, then the higher range of the rate of interest involves a reduction in capital values of stocks quoted at a fixed rate. It is simply an illustration of the law of supply and demand. But there may be a measure of truth, otherwise, in Lord Rothschild's contention. He certainly ought to know whether the great stock barons and multi-millionaires are being influenced by the action of various Governments, and whether in turn they are trying to affect the money market and teach the world a lesson. Lord Rothschild, perhaps, had Mr. Roosevelt in his eye and Mr. Roosevelt's speeches in his memory. The President of the United States has been very emphatic of late upon the question of illicitly-gained wealth. Speaking of the United States the other day, he said:—"There is a growing determination in our country that no man shall amass a great fortune by special privilege, chicanery, and wrong-doing, so far as it is in the power of legislation to prevent it, and that fortunes when amassed shall not have a business use that is anti-social." Recent American prosecutions of marauding trusts have aroused world-wide interest in this connection, and the end is not yet. No doubt the multi-millionaires whose consciences are not easy are angry and feel vindictive, and they may be able to do some mischief. But it is absolutely certain that they cannot rule the nations by their rigging of the stock markets, or daunt men like Mr. Roosevelt by their anathemas. If we are to interpret Lord Rothschild's words by the light of such considerations, then the price of stocks may continue to go down. But the price will rise again, and the wrathful financiers will grow more reasonable, or the Governments of the world will know the reason why.

THE NEW PACIFIC SERVICE.

Direct steam communication with San Francisco, which has been interrupted since the Oceanic Steamship Company's three vessels ceased to run, is re-established by the arrival of the Foreric this week. The service is not on the same lines as the old one, of course, being intended for goods transit mainly, but it is something to have the assurance of regular communication with the Californian port again. It is true that the magnificent service carried on by the Union Company to Vancouver keeps up the connection with the Pacific slope, but only at the expense of a certain loss of time as far as the direct trade with the United States is concerned. But the fault lies mainly with the American Government and its restrictive navigation laws, especially that one which insists that trade between the Union's ports can only be carried on by vessels owned in the United States. That means in effect that the part of the voyage between Honolulu and San Francisco must be left out of any Australian line that cared to compete in the trade, which practically puts us out of the running. The shipping enterprise of the United States is unequal to the attempt to carry on an efficient mail and passenger service without a very substantial subsidy drawn from both sides of the water, and it must be assumed that Mr. J. D. Spreckels gave that a fair trial before he withdrew his steamships from the Australian service. Whether the difficulty can be overcome or not in the future time will show, but it must be admitted that the obstacles in the way of a direct and quick Sydney to San Francisco service are not to be lightly overcome.

But if we cannot get the best we must be content with something less, and that is what the Andrew Weir and Co. cargo line offers us. The Foreric is the pioneer of that line, which aims first and last at being a freight-carrier. Her two million feet of timber and 500 tons of general merchandise show the kind of trade she is able to bring us. But there is more in it than that. To say nothing of the fact that this cargo-steamer carried some 10 tons of mail matter, there is the statement that she could have booked some hundreds of passengers if the vessel had been able to offer the necessary accommodation. It appears that there are more persons on the San Francisco side eager to come to Australia than there are here waiting for the return journey. The fact is worth noting, because it may point to the time when it may pay this company or some other to build vessels fitted for the double purpose of goods and passenger carrying. Of course it would be necessary to improve on the Foreric's 9-knot speed rate if passengers are to be taken. There is a huge gap between that and the 15 or 16 knot rate which the Sonoma, Sierra, and Ventura could achieve on occasion. Then in the case of the voyage just concluded, it is noticed that the usual passenger route is not followed, Honolulu and Samoa being left out. But as we have said, the new service can only be estimated by what it professes to do. If the trade justifies further developments, these will come in time. The point for the present is that the chief port of the Commonwealth is glad to see in its waters again vessels from the chief Pacific port of the American Union.

"Saturday's Herald."—On account of the large amount of advertising matter which has to be dealt with for Saturday's issue of the "Herald," advertisers and agents are requested to send in their advertisements as early as possible to-day, in order to facilitate classification.

The Deceased Wife's Sister Act.—Archdeacon Gunther thinks that those who read the extract from the sermon of a Sydney clergyman in last Saturday's issue on this subject should know that the English bishops do not consider it "a proper and rightful step towards liberty of action." The episcopal declaration published in English papers and those made in the House of Lords by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishops of London and Salisbury show, he says, that they view the change in the law as a very grave one. The Archbishop of Canterbury, writing in the "Diocesan Gazette," says:—"I deplore on national as well as on religious grounds the passing of this bill. We shall, in my judgment, serve best the interests of the Church and people by not solemnising such marriages, or furthering their solemnisation in church." Though the bill was brought forward in the month of August—a time most inconvenient to the bishops—two-thirds of them were present and voted against it.

The State Bank.—In the description of the developments relating to the State Bank in yesterday's issue the word "not" was dropped as the result of a printer's error. The paragraph in regard to the line of cleavage between the State Bank and the trading banks on the question of advances to settlers should read thus:—"The commissioners are not trading for profits. Therefore they will not come into competition with the trading banks. Their security will be a first mortgage on the land. Loans will not be advanced on stock, plant, etc., as in the case of trading banks." The three country branches already established are West Maitland, Bathurst, and Goulburn. They establishment of a branch at East Maitland is not at present contemplated. A branch, will, however, be established at Cowra. The last-mentioned was not included in yesterday's list.

A Press Eviction.—The presence of about 14 barristers, with their instructing solicitors, who are engaged in discussing the various matters that have arisen in regard to the will of the late George Adams, has tested the capacity of No. 1 Jury Court. On Wednesday several counsel sought accommodation in the jury box, which not only has the advantage of a commanding view of the "well," but to some extent overlooks the Bench. When, however, it came to a question of addressing the Court below, or manipulating a large brief on a small desk, the learned gentlemen got into difficulties, and a raid was made yesterday upon the sanctum of the Press. The representatives of the fourth estate did not oppose the eviction, but rather enjoyed the change to a more elevated position, where they could literally look down on the Bar.

The Storage in Cataract Dam.—The medical officer to the Water and Sewerage Board has reported that the water in Cataract dam now contains only about one-half the organic matter which it previously held in solution; and this being so no time will be lost in replenishing Prospect reservoir from this source. The river will first be cleaned out, 100 millions of gallons being allowed to run down to Broughton's Pass for that purpose. At that point the water will be turned into the canal. In the meantime, of course, the supply for Campbelltown, Camden, and Liverpool and other places along the canal will come from the Nepean tunnel through the dume, which enables the board to separate the two waters.

Affiliation of Trade Unions.—In connection with the suggestion emanating from the Lithgow Smelters' Union that a conference should be arranged for the discussion of the question of the affiliation of trade unions throughout the State, it is pointed out that some of the kindred labour bodies at present recognise one another's clearance cards. A motion in favour of this was carried at the last Trade Unions' Congress, held in Melbourne, although the general acceptance of the principle among all the unions was not touched on. A prominent unionist, speaking on the matter yesterday, stated that one thing that militated against this being done was that some of the unions had benefit and accidents funds, to which the subscription was mainly voluntary. Should the member of one union desire to enter another which did not make the provision indicated, he forfeited all the benefits for which he might have been paying for years, especially as he could not claim a refund. At last night's meeting of the Sydney Labour Council a communication was received from the Lithgow Smelters' Union, asking the council to take into consideration the advisability of calling a conference, and it was decided to refer the matter to the executive.

On the Cars.—Riding on the footboards of the trams is not uncommon in Sydney, and at intervals accidents show the danger of this practice. The City Coroner (Mr. J. L. King), in the course of an inquest yesterday upon the victim of the Mosman tram fatality, made a few remarks concerning the risky way in which some passengers ride on the cars. The ceased was in this case standing on the iron step of the platform, and was flung off as the car rounded a curve. The Coroner also referred to the advisability of conductors, where possible, preventing passengers travelling in such perilous positions.

Our Own Australian Wattle.—Our Australian wattle may be appreciated in its own country, but it has an excellent name in South Africa. Mr. George Valder, the Commercial Agent, who has spent a few years in that country, told the Forestry Commission yesterday that in Natal, in the course of a few years from its introduction, it was planted in such numbers that now £100,000 worth of bark was produced. Prior to its introduction large areas were treeless, now they were thickly timbered; and their use as a shelter for cattle during the piercing winds which blow in that country, was fully appreciated. On the sandy wastes around Capetown, the wattle had been planted, and in many cases farms had since been taken up, although the land before the wattle came into occupation of it was considered worthless. The aspect of the country had, Mr. Valder said, been completely altered.

Trial Trip of the Delta.—The official trial trip of Dalgety and Company's steamer Delta was made on Wednesday, in the presence of Messrs. M'Kenzie, Grafinger, Kidd, and Beckett, and a number of other gentlemen. The vessel proved herself highly satisfactory in every respect. The dimensions of the Delta, which was built by Mort's Dock and Engineering Company from the designs of Captain T. L. Grainger for the carrying of cargo, towing, also for fire and salvage service are:—Length over all, 78ft; beam, moulded, 21ft; depth, moulded, 7ft 9in. The Delta is built of steel throughout, to comply with Lloyd's requirements for 100A class, and will be fitted with compound non-condensing engines, having cylinders 10in and 18in diameter, 18in stroke, steel Marian type boiler 8ft 6in diameter, 7ft 6in long, built for a working pressure of 120lb. The fire and salvage pump will be fitted on deck, having steam cylinder 12in diameter, water cylinder 8in diamater, the stroke being 12in. The workmanship and materials are of the highest kind, and the work of construction was carried out under the superintendence of Captain Grainger and Mr. Kidd.

Drought and Dearth of Stock Trucks.—Over 51,000 sheep (including lambs) were marketed at the Homebush yards yesterday, and fully 90,000 are in view for the sales next week. These are heavy supplies, and would be augmented if more sheep vans were available. The drought conditions of parts of the State necessitate the trucking of stock to relief country on the one hand, and to the fat stock markets on the other. So acute has the position become that the Railway Department is unable to supply stock trucks in sufficient numbers to meet the demand. It seems to be taxed beyond its resources. Graziers whose stock could go to grass country free under the delay, for it means loss; and owners whose stock are destined for the fat stock saleyards need the trucks to get their sheep or cattle, as the case may be, to market while the animals are in condition for the butcher. Stock agents and owners who order trucks are met half way; some owners can be accommodated wholly or in part, and some are turned empty away. Meanwhile some stock succumb in the dust and glare, and others become too poor to give hope of reaching a fat stock market, and realising prices remunerative to the owners.

The English Mails.—The R.M.S. Orontes, with English mails for the week ended September 13, arrived at Fremantle at 4.50 a.m. yesterday, and she resumed the voyage to the eastern States at 11.45 a.m. The delivery of the Sydney portion of these mails will be made on Wednesday.

Overpaid Contractors.—The Premier has called for a detailed report regarding the matters referred to by Mr. M'Gowen in his speech in the Assembly on Wednesday, regarding the overpayments made to contractors who supplied school materials to the Department of Public Instruction. In the meantime Mr. Wade is not in a position to make a definite statement. "My own recollection," he said "is that the thing has been dealt with publicly already. I think the matter was referred to by Mr. Carruthers in Parliament some time ago. The whole thing is old, and I believe the weak points which were commented upon by the departmental board appointed to investigate the circumstances have since been remedied."

Wire Netting.—So far as the State Government is concerned, any attempt to settle the dispute between the Federal and State authorities with respect to the Customs duty charged on wire netting imported by the Government, outside of a decision by the Courts, is doomed to failure. Mr. Wade said that though he knew of no negotiations with the object of arriving at an understanding without the assistance of the Courts, so far as he was concerned the State had been trying to obtain a decision for many years past, and he was hopeful that the action now pending would be the means of obtaining it. The object of the proceedings was to determine the questions: (1) Whether State goods, which are intended to be used for State purposes, are liable to Customs duty; (2) whether goods imported by the State, which may be sold or disposed of to individual citizens, such as wire netting, were liable to duty; and (3) assuming both of the abovementioned classes of goods to be exempt, whether the Customs authorities had any control over such goods or not.

The Sweating Evil.—Among the legislation for the present session of Parliament, foreshadowed in the Governor's speech, is "a measure regulating the conditions of employment of young persons in factories and shops." It is understood that the bill will be aimed at the sweating evil which exists in a number of establishments, particularly where girls are employed. Reports recently received show that many young girls are engaged, especially in dressmaking establishments, at from nothing to half-a-crown a week. The bill will contain provisions designed to render the existence of such a state of things impossible, and in other respects improve the conditions of the employment of young people.

"Squally and Dusty."—Squally, dry, and dusty weather, the Government Meteorologist stated yesterday, may be expected for the most part, excepting a few partial showers over southern districts, and possibly on the South Coast, with westerly to southerly winds. At 8 o'clock yesterday evening there was a south-west gale raging on the coast south from Eden, and the sea was rough. At that hour there was a light south-east wind at Sydney Heads, and calms generally on the North Coast.

Inefficient Labour.—The Director of Labour has several times directed attention to the fact that, notwithstanding the scarcity of first-grade labour, there is a quantity of lower grade and only partially efficient labour procurable at all times. In support of this he quotes the fact that when "60 male attendants" were advertised for a popular seaside resort 1500 applications responded, while another advertisement for 100 supers, for a city theatre "brought a crowd which temporarily blocked the street." "Some of these men," Mr. Schey adds, "mostly young, and either undersized or of weak physique, are arriving by every boat from Great Britain, and other places at times." He was informed that many of the applicants above referred to were physically strong enough to tackle manual work, but appeared averse to having anything to do with it. "Of course, I have no means of checking that particular statement," he says, "but it is undoubtedly a fact that there are a great many men about Sydney looking for light and also for respectable jobs, who either cannot or will not take up first-class labour of any description."

The Labour Market.—In his monthly report to the Premier respecting the operations of the Government Labour Bureau for September, Mr. W. F. Schey, Commissioner for Labour, states that during the month 63 married men and 151 single men were registered. On September 30 211 men were awaiting work, while during the month 282 persons were assisted and sent to work. Mr. Schey adds that the state of the labour market continues generally satisfactory. In spite of the dry weather in the country districts, the market for labour is very fairly good in most places, few or no unemployed being reported by most of the country agents. In the city and suburbs employment was quite as good as, and in some directions better than, during the previous month. Of 28 trades and callings only six reported trade as quiet. All the others say that employment has not been so plentiful for years past. There is an uneasy feeling, however, that unless rain falls within a very short period the resulting hardships to the State generally will be reflected in a slackening of all sorts of operations in and about the metropolis. "But for this," Mr. Schey says, "the present excellent industrial conditions are likely to continue for a long time."

Australian Sheep in South Africa.—Mr. Valder, the Commercial Agent for New South Wales in South Africa, reports that the sheep imported from New South Wales have proved suitable for the South African country, and he has every reason to believe that the prospects of trade in stud sheep in South Africa are good. Before leaving Capetown on his visit to Sydney, Mr. Valder arranged with Mr. W. M'Kee, the Cape wool expert, to have access to the New South Wales samples of wool, and to exhibit them whenever an opportunity arose. According to the Cape "Argus" of September 4, Mr. M'Kee has had an exhibition of wools in Capetown.

Eastern Suburbs Railway.—With the object of once more directing attention to the necessity of railway communication with the eastern suburbs, Mr. Latimer, M.L.A., has given notice of his intention to move in the Legislative Assembly on Tuesday:—"That in the opinion of this House—(1) The inconvenience caused to residents of the western and eastern suburbs, and to the public, by reason of the termination of the railway system being located at the southern end of the city, should be removed at the earliest opportunity; (2) That the railway system should be extended to a suitable position in the direction of Circular Quay, and thence by branch lines, so designed as to serve the people of the eastern suburbs."

The Lusitania's Telephone System.—The Cunard Company are in a position to state that in no ship has the question of intercommunication been so comprehensively dealt with as in the Lusitania. The system adopted is that of the telephone, and so thoroughly has it been carried out that no hotel has a more complete system of telephonic communication. When the vessel is alongside the stage or wharf at Liverpool the telephonic system of the ship is connected with the central exchange, thus enabling the passenger from the privacy of his own cabin to talk with London, Paris, etc. In the ship herself the method of working is that known as the "central battery." In this system only one battery is required, and there is, of course, a central exchange controlled by an expert operator. The central battery supplies the current for signalling and speaking for all the instruments in the ship. To call the exchange, it is only necessary to lift the receiver and place it to the ear. The act of lifting the receiver lights a little electric lamp on the telephone switchboard. Immediately under the lamp is placed the answering jack or switch, and when the operator inserts one of the plugs to answer the call the lamp is extinguished.

To Mature Whisky.—It is not generally known that, although a sea trip has a rejuvenating effect on a man, it is said to have the very opposite effect on the whisky he imbibes. To send a cargo of whisky in bulk across the line, according to spirit dealers, adds three years to its age. It has exactly the same effect as storing the whisky for three years to mature. It is a common thing for New York merchants to send a cargo of the spirit for a trip round Cape Horn to Valparaiso as ballast. Two-year whisky, after doing the trip, comes back mature five-year-old spirit. And Australian spirit merchants have this advantage over English or Scotch dealers. A five-year-old whisky shipped from Scotland is practically eight years old on arrival in Sydney.

A White Australian.—The Zoological Society has recently added to its collection at Moore Park a bird which is indeed rara avis. This interesting zoological curiosity is a white emu. Though instances of albinos occur with more or less frequency in numbers of species of animal life, it is a rarity among emus. The society's specimen, which is similar in every respect to the ordinary kind, is of a creamy tint, and was obtained at some cost from the vicinity of Cobar.

"A Constant Visitor" writes complaining of the award in the skating competition for the children's championship.

Messrs. Angus and Robertson forward the October catalogue of the Sydney Book Club—a valuable publication for those country and suburban subscribers who are prevented from visiting the library.

A correspondent states that the late Mr. James Moore, of Cargo, was not a founder in the general signification of the word, being a man of independent means.

The railway authorities announce the issue of combined rail and steamer tickets to the Nepean River to-morrow.

At the Sydney School of Arts Debating Club last night the following motion was negatived:—"That the best method of achieving the new protection would be the federalising of industrial legislation."

"Disgusted" writes denouncing the "cheeseparing methods" in the making of roads and paths in the Botanic Gardens. Masonic Hall, he states, seem as if they have been used as a ballast tip for city excavations, while the asphalt paths are cracked out of all semblance.

"Lover of Music" writes expressing regret that the ladies' orchestra is not again included among the entertainments of Wonderland City.

An anti-tariff demonstration will be held under the auspices of the Women's Liberal League at the Town Hall on Monday evening.

THE SALVATION ARMY BAND.

THEFT OF INSTRUMENTS.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

At the Prahran Court to-day, Henry Wrathall was charged with having stolen one tenor horn and two euphoniums, valued at £6 10s, the property of Robert Chisholm, a blacksmith.

The prosecutor is a bandsman in the Prahran branch of the Salvation Army, and the instruments were stolen from a locker at the barracks.

Thomas York, musical instrument maker and repairer, purchased the instruments from the accused, who were a Salvation Army uniform, and said that he was selling the instruments on behalf of the Richmond Salvation Army.

A record of 17 previous convictions was read against the accused. They consisted of housebreaking, larceny, unlawfully wounding, receiving, and stealing. He was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment.

ISOLATED GERMANY.

WOULD PLACATE BRITAIN.

MAY BE MERELY TIME SERVING.

"TIMES" WEIGHTY INDICTMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The "Times" in a weighty leading article on the visit of the German Emperor to the King in November, and the rumour that Prince Bulow, the Imperial Chancellor, will accompany the Emperor, comments upon the attempts of Prince Bulow to convey to the British public that he is exceedingly anxious for cordial relations with Great Britain. The "Times" notes that "Prince Bulow does not exert himself so actively to create the same impression among the Bassermanns, the Kelms, and the Lieberts (all Anglophobes) in Germany."

"Possibly," the "Times" continues, "the Anglo-French entente, the Anglo-Russian agreement, and the fact that some years must elapse and many more millions spent before Germany can build and accommodate any considerable number of Dreadnoughts has suggested the desirability of cultivating for the present Great Britain's goodwill.

"We prefer to think that Prince Bulow regrets and wishes to efface the recollection of the insults and calumnies he allowed to be hurled at us and our soldiers with a mere faint-hearted remonstrance, though he knew from the report of German officers that those charges were false and malignant.

"All we ask is proof that the repentance of those wronging us is sincere. We have not found that proof at The Hague, nor in any marked degree in Germany's treatment of the latest phase of the Moroccan question, which, while correct, has not been wholly reassuring. Our policy has not changed since Sir Edward Grey (Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs) declared that fair and good relations between Germany and France are a condition to any improvement in the public relations between Germany and ourselves."

A summary of Great Britain's relations with Germany during the last 10 years, with comments, is contributed by one of the writers of "Episodes of the Month" in the "National Review." He writes:—"In years gone by, when we were in some sort of agreement with Germany, so far from providing us with a firm friend whose moral support might at any rate be counted on in the hour of need, it simply saddled us with a false friend, who directly we were in difficulties—during the dark winter of 1899-1900—threw off her mask, and became our most bitter and hostile enemy. Our misplaced confidence had only served to prejudice our relations with other Powers, and to assist the great international agent provocateur in pushing them against us. Obviously if Great Britain was a follower of Germany she was an object of suspicion to Russia and France, and it is unnecessary to remind our readers of the successive crises in which these suspicions actively fomented by Germany continually involved us. We, in fact, occupied a position of perilous isolation. The revolt of the 'man in the street' against the German agreement caused by the South African war compelled the British Government to reverse that policy, and paved the way for the Japanese alliance, the French entente, and that general improvement in our international relations which has been such a gratifying feature of the last four years. Had we continued to Anglo-Germanise there would not have been the remotest prospect of that settlement of outstanding Anglo-Russian difficulties which is now practically concluded. According to the Westminster Gazette's latest contributor, Prince Bulow, there has even been an improvement in our relations with Germany. If such be the case it is simply because we have left running after the Germans, who are in a frenzy of consequence now running after us. . . That it is easier for the leopard to change his spots or the Ethiopian his skin than for the Teuton to abandon mischief-making is shown by the unscrupulous effort to convert the recent exchange of complimentary toasts between the King and Kaiser at Wilhelmshohe as so much evidence that 'perfide Albion' was at her old tricks again. The same cue will be extensively played in connection with the German Emperor's visit to this country. In other words, King Edward's courtesy visit to his nephew at Wilhelmshohe is made the excuse for reviving the Bismarckian bogey of a European coalition against England unless we pay blackmail to 'the honest broker,' and a pretext for pretending that we are anxious to abandon our alliance with Japan, our entente with France, and our agreements with Russia in order to throw ourselves into the arms of the Germans. We can easily guess at the use which is being made of the King's visit to Germany, and which will be made by the German Emperor's visit to England by Teutonic diplomacy in Paris, St. Petersburg, and Tokio. Despite the ostentatious devotion of her statesmen to the cause of peace, Germany remains the one disturbing international element."

CORRUPTION IN NEW YORK.

SHARING THE LOOT.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The exposure of corruption among the New York traction companies culminated yesterday in the testimony of Anthony Brady before the Inquiry Commission. He stated that a comparatively worthless franchise called the Fulton-Wall-street Ferries and Railway, existing only on paper, was sold to the Metropolitan Company for £200,000. He himself received £50,000, and the balance was shared by Ryan, Dolan, Elkins, Whitney, and by Widener and More Schley brokers.

ADVANTAGES OF UNIFICATION.

CAPE TREASURER'S PLEA.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Mr. E. H. Walton, Treasurer of Cape Colony, in the course of a speech at Capetown, said that the South African colonies were unable to afford federation, but the sacrifices required for unification were infinitesimal compared with the advantages which would accrue from the adoption of such a scheme.

DEFENCE AGAINST UNIONISM.

SHIPPING FEDERATIONS CONFER.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Delegates from the Shipping Federations at Antwerp, Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Hamburg, Copenhagen, Gothenburg, and other places will meet the British Shipping Federation at London on Tuesday, to concert a defence against trade unionism.

Mr. Cuthbert Laws, general manager of the Shipping Federation of Great Britain, in the course of a statement regarding the aims of the proposed conference of shipping federations of Europe, said:—"We are seeking to oppose combination by combination. We are striking chiefly at 'peaceful picketing' and the 'block' system. When one of the maritime unions has a grievance against a shipowner, that man's vessels are what we termed "blocked," that is to say, the various unions acting in co-operation, seek to boycott the ship, and to prevent it from loading or unloading, and from obtaining a crew. It is done by picketing the vessel, and using peaceful persuasion to induce the dock hands, crew, and others to strike work. In this country since the advent of the Shipping Federation we have no fear of a strike, and if the various organisations which now exist were to combine for their mutual protection the international boycotting system would be met by an international force. With this object in view we have invited the shipping federations of the principal maritime countries of the world to a conference which will discuss ways and means of mutual protection."

HAGUE CONFERENCE.

CONVENTION ON SUBMARINE MINES.

DANGERS TO NEUTRAL SHIPPING.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

A plenary sitting of the International Conference at The Hague has adopted the convention relating to the use of submarine mines, but the reservations of several Powers nullify so far as they are concerned its most important provisions.

Discussion revealed a marked conflict of opinion between the British and German delegations. Sir Edward Satow, the second British delegate, emphatically declared that Great Britain would not accept the convention as a final solution, and commented on its inadequacy. He also mentioned that neutral shipping was gravely endangered by omissions from the convention.

The convention regarding the rights and duties of neutrals in war time was adopted. Great Britain, Japan, the United States of America, and three other Powers abstained from adhering to the convention, and Germany and five other Powers made reservations.

Referring to the manner in which the proposals of Great Britain have been met at the Hague, a writer in the "National Review" states:—"Germany's representatives at the International Conference make no attempt to conceal the methods by which she will wage war upon us at the appointed time. They have openly proclaimed her diabolical intention to sow the whole seas with mines, an announcement which should be followed by the withdrawal of our delegates, unless the conference consents to put mine-sowers in the same category as well-poisoners."

SENSATIONAL RAILWAY OUTRAGE.

A DESPERATE ENCOUNTER.

ATTACK ON A BANKER.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

A number of armed passengers who were travelling on the Dorpat-Walz railway, Russia, tried to rob a banker, who was carrying a large sum of money.

His escort of gendarmes opened fire on the attacking party. One of the robbers, two passengers, and one gendarme were killed; while the banker, a gendarme, and several passengers were wounded.

The robbers, who failed to secure the money, jumped from the train and escaped.

ROBBERY FROM CHURCHES.

ANTIQUARIAN VALUABLES.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

M. Antonio Thomas, a merchant in Clermont-Ferrand, France, on being arrested, confessed that he had been engaged in a systematic robbery of antiquarian valuables from French churches.

He alleges that many of the clergy connived at the thefts.

THE RAILWAY TROUBLE.

RECOGNITION OF UNIONISM DEMANDED.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The conference of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, held at Middlesbro', has unanimously supported the demand for recognition of the society by the railway companies.

Mr. Richard Bell, in a recent speech explaining the requests of the railway men, said that the workers wanted to let the public know that they were asking simply for what was enjoyed by all other sections of organised workers throughout the country. The men desired that whatever the conditions of employment they should be set down in terms of agreement between representatives of the company and representatives of the men, and that an alteration could not take place until such time as there had been further discussion and agreement on the question.

SECULARISING EDUCATION.

ROMAN CATHOLIC OBJECTION TO MR. BIRRELL.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

The Right Rev. E. O'Dwyer, Roman Catholic Bishop of Limerick, denounces the secularising attitude of Mr. A. Birrell (Chief Secretary for Ireland) to education, and advises Nationalist members of the House of Commons to declare open war and cut all communication with the Government.

DECEASED WIFE'S SISTER MARRIAGES.

MORE OBSTACLES.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

The Registry of the Archdeaconry of London has directed surrogates not to entertain applications from persons to marry their deceased wife's sister, and to refer the matter to the faculty office.

A DARING RUSSIAN.

Law, a Russian, has been sentenced at Paris to 15 years' penal servitude, for firing at troops from an omnibus in that city on May Day.

OBITUARY.

The death is announced of Mr. John Carvel Williams, who for 30 years was secretary of the Society for the Liberation of Religion from State Patronage and Control, and latterly vice-president, aged 88 years.

CAUSE OF CANCER.

AUSTRALIAN OBSERVATIONS.

AMERICAN CORROBORATION.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

Dr. Cooke Adams, reporting to the Chicago Board of Health, contends that the statistical investigations in Europe, Great Britain, and the United States fully corroborate earlier Australian observations that the great increase in cancer has been due to the increased consumption of animal foods, particularly diseased animals.

"Statistical investigations," says Dr. Ernest S. Rashford, superintendent of the Cancer Research Fund, in the course of a recent report, "have arrived at a point at which experiment has become essential in order to solve definitely problems relating to the incidence of cancer, which statistics alone are unable to decide. Up to the present investigations have revealed very considerable differences in the number of cases recorded in various races of mankind. Some of these differences are only apparent; to determine whether or not others are real, more prolonged investigation is necessary, e.g., as to the longevity of the inhabitants of Tasmania, which may possibly account for the fact that cancer of the lip is so very frequent in the returns from that colony."

"The latest investigations," said an officer of the Board of Health yesterday, "tend towards the belief that cancer is a parasitic disease."

"Does that negative the theory that cancer may be contracted by man through the agency of diseased meat?"

"We cannot say it is impossible," he replied, "and with that possibility in view cancerous animals are condemned. The whole thing is in a rather nebulous state just now, but there is no scientific suggestion that I know of that a meat diet causes cancer."

On this question of a meat diet it is interesting to learn that of 900,000 deaths in Japan in 1904, according to a recent report, 25,000 deaths were recorded as being due to cancer. The Japanese are not a meat-eating people, so that the statistics have a negative value, so far as Dr. Cooke Adams's statement is concerned. Figures from India supply no more positive information. Of a number of cases investigated, it was found that 146 occurred in persons whose diet was vegetable, 274 patients living mainly on flesh, and 340 lived on a mixed diet.

Professor W. A. Webb, Professor of Pathology at the Sydney University, in the course of a recent paper on "Some Recent Observations on Cancer and Tumor Growth," replied to the inquiry as to whether cancer is contagious or infectious. "While I am fully aware," he says, "of certain recorded instances of the communication of cancer from one person to another (cancer a deux), and of the existence of so-called cancer houses and cancer districts, I cannot too strongly emphasise the difficulties attendant on the artificial transference of new growths sufficiently demonstrates that cancer is neither contagious nor infectious. The hypothesis that cancer is due to an invasion of parasitic microbes is far from being substantiated, and even if it should be later proved that the phenomena of cancer are initiated by some form of parasite, it does not necessarily follow that cancer is contagious or infectious."

Some years ago it was estimated from statistics that one out of every 31 men, and one out of every 12 women who reached the age of 35, would die of cancer. A computation made some years later on wider statistics was that one out of 12 men, and one out of eight women, who reached the age of 35, would die victims of the disease.

The position taken up by the "Lancet" is, that statistics, while interesting doubtless, prove nothing. What is looked for is cause. No one to date has been able to point to the cause of cancer, and until that knowledge is reached statistics, as was the case in consumption before the tubercular germ was located, will be useless.

ROYAL DAIRY SHOW.

ADDITIONAL AWARDS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Additional awards at the Royal Dairy Show at Islington are:—

Salt Butters.—Cambridge (N.Z.), Bairnsdale, Milawa, Alexandria, and Benalla (Vic.), Marburg, Killarney Valley and Samsonvale (Q.), and Melrose (S.A.), highly commended.

CAUSE OF LOW STOCKS.

HITTING AT CAPITAL.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

Lord Rothschild, who was interviewed by a representative of the "Daily Chronicle," stated that stocks were low because Governments all over the world were hitting at capital.

The London "Bankers' Magazine" points out that in March there was a decline in its list of 387 representative securities of 125 millions sterling, and in August there was a depreciation of 136 millions. Since the beginning of the year the shrinkage was £245,000,000, of which £111,000,000 was in American railroad securities, £48,000,000 in British funds, and £36,000,000 in English railway ordinary stocks. In the South African market there has been an average fall of 25 per cent.

NEW ZEALAND FOOTBALLERS.

FIRST GAME WON.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

The New Zealand footballers scored 5 goals 5 tries to Bramley's 2 tries.

The game was fast, the ground being perfect. The New Zealanders had the upper hand from the start.

MINERS' FEDERATION.

NATIONALISATION WANTED.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The Miners' Federation, now holding its annual meeting at Southport, unanimously passed a resolution recommending the introduction of a bill into Parliament for the nationalisation of mines.

A resolution in favour of the abolition of the House of Lords was also unanimously carried.

TALLOW SALES.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

At the sales of Australian and New Zealand tallow to-day 2375 casks were offered and 1775 were sold. Prices were unchanged, viz., mutton, fine, 35s; medium, 33s; beef, fine, 35s; medium, 32s 3d per cwt.

A TAX ON GAIETY.

"LOUD LAUGHTER" DUTIABLE AT 20 PER CENT.

Though there has been little joy in the Commonwealth since Sir William Lyne brought down his new tariff, the Customs Department is evidently determined that the deficiency shall not be made up by imposts.

The Customs decisions issued yesterday for the guidance of the citizens generally contain the following interesting clauses:—

The Collector will note the following decisions:—

1. "Loud laughter," in portfolia, dutiable at 20 per cent. (foreign), or 25 per cent. (British); item 353A.

2. "The Nation's Pictures," in bound volume, free; item 368.

3. "The Nation's Pictures," the parts of the series in numbers, accompanied by letterpress, free; item 368.

4. "The Louvre," in bound volume, with letterpress, free; item 368.

5. "The Royal Academy Pictures," in bound volume, with letterpress, free; item 368.

CLERGY AT GOLF.

ANGLICANS IN GOOD FORM.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

A fortnight ago, in a match played at Victoria links, the Anglicans, owing to absence of representative players, went down before the Presbyterians and Methodists, but at the return match on Essendon links, when the function was witnessed by the Moderator of the Presbyterian Assembly and the late president of the Wesleyan Conference, the Anglican clergy won by 14 holes.

RUNNING THE SWEEPS.

HOW IT IS DONE.

THE NEW COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER.

The prohibition of carriage of "sweep" letters by the Postal Department has not militated against the growth of these great gambling concerns. Sweeps still flourish. The method of defeating the Post Office embargo is simple.

The first point is to determine how the sweep tickets are obtained. The advertisements of the firm conducting the sweeps show how money can be paid through a bank to the credit of the promoters, whereupon a ticket is sent to the person paying in. The advertisement also states that parcels may be sent by a carrying company. But these means, effective as they may be in circumventing the Post Office, are insufficient to supply the number of tickets being applied for.

There are agents in Sydney and throughout the country districts. They sell tickets, which are made into parcels and delivered by personal messenger to centres having communication with Hobart. The firm's representatives travel for orders as any other commercial agents. The agencies are chiefly at hotels and hairdressers'.

Tickets are obtained by putting in an envelope the necessary fee, with stamped envelopes for reply. The ticket duly reaches the applicant, who could not swear from whom it came. In the event of winning a prize the successful ticket-holder is paid by a cheque, or may hand in his ticket to any bank at which he does business, and the bank will collect the amount due as upon an ordinary draft. The financial institutions of the Commonwealth thus have a part in the business. Since the Post Office is closed the messenger must travel privately, and that he appears to travel well and effectively is shown in the amount of business done year by year without diminution.

Besides the big sweep there are in Sydney several sweeps on the races now being run, and the weekly suburban meetings. These are conducted under assumed names or initials. Tickets are procurable in numerous bars and reputable clubs. There is no limit to the number of tickets participating in the prize. It is not a matter of 10,000 at so much, or any number of thousands. It is a matter of selling as many as possible and paying a series of prizes according to that shown on the facsimile of a ticket here produced, less 10 per cent. for expenses!

The same principle applies to the Eight-hour Art Union lottery, except that 15 per cent. is deducted, and a limit to the number of tickets sold. But there is no doubt about the fortunate ticket-holder getting the prize in the Eight-hour lottery—a condition by no means guaranteed by the unknown horse-race sweep promoter, except in so far as his personal honour is at stake. The sweep tickets are sold by bar-tenders, who receive a number of books, and, for themselves, a book of tickets—about one in 25 is allotted by way of commission. It is stated that the seller of tickets receives a further commission, of 5 per cent. on any prizes that may fall to the tickets sold by him. The sale of tickets at the present time is great. The shilling sweep unlimited is everywhere, both in city and suburbs; one suburb especially, Redfern, is said to contain a sweep business of enormous proportions.

THE INVERELL MURDER.

MINERS ON TRIAL.

A DEAD DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE.

DELUSIONAL INSANITY.

VERDICT OF MANSLAUGHTER.

TAMWORTH, Thursday.

At the Circuit Court Richard Miners, who was charged with murdering Joseph Garrett at Inverell on April 29, pleaded not guilty.

The Crown Prosecutor, in opening the case, said that the body of Garrett was found in a paddock with a hole in the right side of the head, which went through to the brain. The bones of the head were broken up. A bloodstained hoe was found through a fence. The depositions of Dr. Vallee, of Inverell, who made a post-mortem of the body, but who had since died, were read. The depositions stated that the death, in the doctor's opinion, was caused by shock from injuries to the brain. Miners was found in instance. A hoe could have caused the wounds. From observations there was nothing strange about the accused, who was not of a very excitable nature.

Dr. Farrell, Government Medical Officer at Tamworth, explained certain terms in Dr. Vallee's evidence. He said there was a well-known form of delusional insanity. Notwithstanding insane delusions a man would know right from wrong. If he struck another down with a hoe and killed him. A person could be mad on one particular subject.

Samuel Maurer, overseer for Mr. C. L. Smith, Woodstock, stated that deceased was in his employ at the time of his death. Both Garrett and acused were quiet, respectable, sober, and industrious. On the morning of the 29th the men were engaged burr cutting. About 10 o'clock a message came from the station, and he went and found the accused sitting on a log. Witness said to him, "What do you mean by going to the station and making a fuss?" He answered, "Oh, I've done for him. I've killed him." Accused made rambling statements about accusations made by Garrett. He said Garrett hounded him all over the country. Accused said he used the hoe in self-defence, as the other man raised a hoe against him. There were bloodstains on the back part of the hoe.

John Thomas Brewe, a labourer, stated that about a week previous to the murder accused told him that Garrett had been poking fun at him.

Mrs. Smith deposed that the accused came to the homestead between 9 and 10 o'clock on the morning of the April 29, and asked for his wages, stating that he had quarrelled with his mate.

Evidence was also given by Patrick Smith, a labourer, and Sub-inspector Blackburn. The latter, who arrested accused, said that Miners told him he struck Garrett because of an altercation.

Mr. White, in addressing the jury, submitted that the accused was not responsible for the murder, as he was not in his right state of mind when he committed the deed.

The jury returned a verdict of manslaughter, and the prisoner was remanded for sentence.

FIVE LAMBS AT A BIRTH.

QUEANBEYAN, Thursday.

During the past week a merino four-tooth ewe, of Mr. John Walker's, Ledgerton, gave birth to five lambs, three white and two black.

BLACKS TO DEFEND WHITE AUSTRALIA.

BISHOP'S SANGUINE PROPHECY.

The Bishop of Carpentaria (the Rev. G. White) delivered an address in the Chapter House last night on aboriginal missions.

After referring to the duty of the Australian Church towards the aboriginals, he stated that people came to Australia and took the land without any process of law. The blacks were told to move on whenever their land was wanted for cattle runs. In the far north of Australia they had a tract of land of about half a million square miles. In the whole of this—excluding a small portion in the Peninsula and Queensland—the population did not exceed 3000 white people all told. Some of the land was worthless, whilst portions would support a very large population. Other countries were looking with envious eyes on these huge tracts. But it would be possible to add to the practical population of the north 50,000 or 60,000 people able to support themselves by tillage, fishing, and hunting, trained in schools to intelligence and industry, loyal to the Government, because it had well and justly treated them, knowing every inch of the country, and constantly in touch and in communication with the rest of Australia. In other words, the aborigines could be Christianised and civilised.

A fleet sailing from Japanese territory for Port Darwin would reach there two days before a fleet leaving Melbourne on the same day. A foreign force could be landed in the Northern Territory in the wet season, and be there for weeks, or perhaps months, before it was discovered. They could even have the land ploughed, cultivated, and the crops growing, and no one be a bit the wiser. With plenty of mission stations and telephones with a connection to the overland telegraph line, an invading force would not be able to land without the news being quickly circulated all over Australia.

BRITISH RIFLE TEAM.

REFUSED CIVIC RECEPTION.

The Lord Mayor of Sydney (Alderman Hughes) has refused to accord a civic reception to the British riflemen about to visit Sydney.

The National Rifle Association write to the Lord Mayor asking that, in view of the representative character of the British riflemen—the first visit to Australia of a team of marksmen picked by the National Rifle Association of England from the United Kingdom—the visitors should be welcomed at the Town Hall.

The representatives of the N.R.A.—according to an unofficial statement—were received with scant courtesy. No written reply was received, but the town clerk replied by telephone to the secretary of the N.R.A., stating that the Lord Mayor could not receive the visitors at the Town Hall.

Members of the N.R.A. point out that the team includes men with distinguished military careers, and men who occupy important positions in England. They are not coming to Australia on a money-making expedition, and furthermore, they represent the Corporation of the City of London, inasmuch as that distinguished body has helped to subscribe the money necessary for the tour.

The team also comes with the support of the Prince of Wales, Lord Cheylesmore, Earl Roberts, and other well-known public men, so that the Lord Mayor, doubtless by adhering to some hard and fast rule respecting the reception of athletic teams, may arouse some indignation among citizens who consider that the city's hospitality is due to the visitors.

The team, on arrival at Brisbane, were met by Major-General Head and the Acting-Secretary for Defence (Mr. Pethebridge), representing the Federal Government; and was accorded civic and other receptions.

In Sydney the team will be officially welcomed by the State Premier (Mr. Wade) on Monday.

CITY FATALITY.

A TERRIBLE FALL.

W. Jackson, aged about 21, fell from the top of Martin-chambers, in Moore-street, yesterday afternoon, to the pavement, a distance of over 50ft., snapping two telephone wires in his descent. The Civil Ambulance conveyed him to the Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted suffering from a fractured skull, and a compound fracture of the left thigh. He died less than an hour after admission.

PUBLIC PROTESTS.

Mr. W. H. Elsum and "Citizen" write complaining of the delay in bringing the ambulance. They state that the unfortunate young fellow lay bleeding on the pavement for 20 minutes or half an hour with a dense crowd around his body, though there were police present, and delivery vans available to remove him to the hospital.

ASSAULTING THE POLICE.

REMARKS BY THE CHIEF JUSTICE.

LENIENCY OF MAGISTRATES.

BATHURST, Thursday.

When passing sentence upon a prisoner named Clancy at the Assize Court to-day, the Chief Justice made some remarks concerning the practice of assaulting the police. He said that Clancy was fortunate that he had not had to stand his trial for murder, and that he had not killed the policeman who was attempting to arrest his brother. He had come behind the policeman with a bottle, and dealt him a cowardly blow. The accused had been previously convicted of assaulting a policeman and fined only 40s. He could not understand such leniency. The police were a public body whom the law should protect, and those who interfered with them should be severely punished. This was, as usual, of a cowardly nature. He was determined, when any charge of assaulting the police was brought before him, that he would inflict a sentence commensurate with the crime. It was high time that crimes against the officers of the police were put down. The police must be protected against such men as Clancy, and he would sentence him to three years' imprisonment. If the magistrate who had dealt with the first case had given him the full benefit of the Act, he would in all probability not be in court that day.

ALLEGED COMMON GAMING HOUSE.

RESCISSION OF DECLARATION.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the Practice Court to-day an application was made by Elizabeth Johnston, of Arthur-street, Lavender Bay, Sydney, for the rescission of a declaration made under the Lotteries, Betting, and Gaming Act of 1906, that certain premises owned by her at 124 Little Lonsdale-street, Melbourne, was a common gaming house.

From applicant's affidavit it appeared that the premises were let as a store, and that the owner was not aware that they were being used as a gaming house.

Counsel for the Crown said that if the Court were satisfied with the affidavit he would raise no objection to the rescission of the declaration.

Mr. Justice Cussen said that he was so satisfied. He rescinded the declaration and directed the applicant to enter into a bond of £20 that the premises would not be used again for gaming.

TWO IN A KETCH.

ROUGH VOYAGE TO THURSDAY ISLAND.

"JACK COLLINS."

Captain Liljeblad, who has just returned from Thursday Island, related the story yesterday:—

"I signed on at the Dutch consulate on September 1, with three men, who were to meet me on the Woy Woy wharf and proceed thence to Thursday Island with the ketch Wave. The three men did not turn up. I waited on the wharf for hours. An active, sailor-looking man was passing, and I stopped him.

"'My three men have deserted. Will you come with me?'

"'How far?'

"'To Thursday Island—2000 miles. The two of us might manage it. I'll pay your passage back.'

"'I'll go.'

"'What's your name?'

"'Jack.'

"'And your other name?'

"'Collins.'

"'Have you been to sea before?'

"'Yes; twenty years of it.'

"We sailed away in the ketch Wave. Twenty-four hours out we struck a fierce nor'-nor'-west gale, that blew us to within 50 miles of Lord Howe Island. How Jack worked! In my twenty-seven years' experience I have never seen anything to approach it. Two of us in a ketch—he was as good as a dozen. Our little craft was badly knocked about. At a critical time the boom broke. But we fixed it. There wasn't a thing on board that Jack couldn't do. No, I have never met his equal. I can see him now in the heavy gale doing his trick at the tiller, tired, wet, and almost falling asleep from sheer exhaustion. When I took a turn at the tiller, no matter how much he was spent out, he was on deck again the first word I uttered. Lor', he was a sailor! Only the two of us, and he did the biggest whack of the manual labour; he cooked, he pumped, handled the tiller, set up the rigging, worked the sails. And how he did it! In all my 27 years' experience I have never met a man like him. He was as cheerful and light-hearted in a gale as he was on the bright morning I met him on Woy Woy wharf.

"The gales lasted for six days, and then in three and a half days' sail we fetched Point Lookout, on the Queensland coast, and reached Thursday Island on the 28th.

"I wondered where Jack had been before, he was such a perfect sailor. 'Where did you get training as a seaman?' I asked him.

"'In the navy, sir. They give me a pension now.'

"'In all my twenty-seven years' experience——'

IRON ORE IN VICTORIA.

SUBSIDISED BY REDUCED FREIGHTS.

Mr. J. Sherman, of Mirboo (says the Melbourne "Age"), who has a deposit of iron ore on his property, interviewed the Premier at the State House to ask that the same rate at which coal was carried might be applied to iron ore. Mr. Sherman has been asked by the Iron and Steel Metals Manufacturing Company to give a quotation for supplying from 200 to 300 tons weekly.

Mr. Bent agreed that the iron ore should be carried at 9d per ton per mile for a period of six months, the difference of 4d between that and the ordinary rate to be paid out of the Treasury.

BEER "UP."

SAD SUMMER AHEAD.

The rise in the price of beer, as announced in yesterday's "Herald," proves to be more far-reaching than was at first anticipated.

The licensed victuallers, after a closer acquaintance with the tariff and its incidence, find that the duty on bottles has resulted in their having to pay 12s per dozen for imported ales and stouts, instead of 11s. The Belmore branch of the Licensed Victuallers' Association has decided to pass the increase on to the consumer, who will in future pay 1s 3d for his bottled beer instead of a shilling. As there was a possibility that the trade generally would follow the lead of Belmore, Mr. J. J. Power, president of the Licensed Victuallers, was interviewed.

Mr. Power explained that the branch associations had power to make any local arrangements they thought fit, and it would not affect the trade generally. But all the hotelkeepers are affected to the same extent by the tariff, and it is almost certain that the increased price will be charged all round. The metropolitan branch has been considering the question of an increase. The price before the tariff was 11s to 11s 3d a dozen for bottled ales, stout, and lager, and the additional 16d brings the wholesale cost up to 12s. This increase must, of course, be passed along to the consumer, who will have to pay 1s 3d for imported ales and stouts. If the Federal Parliament does not confirm the increased duties the trade will revert to the old price. At present all wine and spirit merchants are charging an additional shilling per dozen for wines, beers, and spirits to hotelkeepers. But the trade has circularised the members of the House of Representatives with a view to having the duty removed. The Australian politicians might, through schools and colleges, train the minds of the young, it was urged, but through such institutions as Christian Endeavour societies and churches that proper bias was given to their minds. The Christian Endeavour societies numbered about 35,000 members in Australasia. (Applause.) They were trying to make Australia a country to be proud of. (Applause.)

Mr. Deakin said he believed that for outside the 80,000 members in the Commonwealth there were others who could be reckoned by millions of thousands, whose heartiest sympathies went with them. He was always happy to admit how immensely the task of civilising the New Hebrides and British New Guinea was assisted by missionary effort. (Applause.) Under these circumstances, he did not think that his colleagues would blame him if he stole from the Legislative Chamber in order to express on their behalf their acknowledgment of this great field of labour, which was represented in the exhibition. Reading the reports, which came from the New Hebrides and Papua, and from other parts, he appreciated, as few did in this southern part of Australia, the transformation that was being steadily accomplished in these islands by the labours of missionaries.

Simultaneous public meetings were held in the evening at the Wesley Church and Independent Church, when addresses were delivered by the Revs. E. H. Sugden, David Ross, J. Thomas, and Professor Gosman, all of Victoria. The two first named spoke on "The principles of interpretation of the Sermon." The Revs. J. Thomas and Professor Gosman dealt with "The Sermon as a basis of social reconstruction."

RUSHING CANCELLED LEASE.

GROUND BRISTLING WITH PEGS.

WEST WYALONG, Thursday.

An unusual scene was witnessed yesterday evening on the Operator mine, the lease of which became cancelled then. Twenty-six men provided with pegs, picks, and shovels, were waiting for the time to arrive, when a general rush was made to get in pegs. The police were in attendance, but no serious trouble arose. At the finish, each corner block bristled with pegs. The Operator ground is situated on the boundary of the Golden Fleece and the Brookmag's United Company's properties. The applicants do not know yet what position they are in. It is probable the matter will be referred to the Minister for Mines.

LASSOING STRAY DOGS.

MELBOURNE'S MUNICIPAL COWBOY.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Richard Moore, who has appeared before the public as "Mexican Jack," cowboy, deadshot, and lasso expert, was employed during a municipal raid on stray dogs to lasso the animals and place them in an improvised dog-cart. Only two dogs were caught, one of which was immediately claimed by an excited Chinese market-gardener.

Moore has now come into prominence again as the owner of two cows which strayed on the railway line at Middle Brighton. The cows were run over, causing the derailment of two carriages, and dislocating the service for some hours.

500,000 RATS.

KILLED IN MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Recently the Government Bacteriologist stated that Melbourne's immunity from any serious outbreak of plague was mainly due to the vigorous action of the Board of Public Health in keeping the city clean and clear of rats. The chairman of the board (Dr. Norris) to-day stated that during the last few years the number of rats destroyed and paid for in the municipal group was 500,000. Melbourne would have to be reconstructed before it could get rid of rats altogether.

Among other pictures that will be found of interest in the "Sydney Mail" this week are:—Pictures of the Eight-hour Procession, the old French Warship Meurthe, Successful Road Cyclists, and others.—Advt.

THE TARIFF.

THE WIRE NETTING DUTY.

DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT.

ANOTHER GOVERNMENT BACKDOWN.

COMPROMISE ARRIVED AT.

DUTY OF 10 PER CENT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The debate on the proposed duty on wire netting was resumed by the House of Representatives, in Committee of Ways and Means, this afternoon. The original proposal of the Government was 30 per cent. ad valorem, and 25 per cent. on the manufactures of the United Kingdom. Under the old tariff wire netting was free, and the recommendations of the Tariff Commission were:—Protectionist section, 25 per cent.; and freetrade section, 5 per cent.

Two amendments had been moved on the previous day—one by Mr. Chanter, to reduce the duty to 15 per cent. on foreign manufactures, and to 10 per cent. against the products of the United Kingdom; and the second by Mr. Fuller, who proposed to place wire netting on the free list.

Dr. LIDDELL (N.S.W.) described the tax as an iniquitous one, and intimated his intention of voting for the second amendment, to place wire netting on the free list. (Hear, hear.) It was the corner party, known inside the House as the Labour party, and outside as the socialistic party, that was responsible for the present tariff. (Hear, hear and dissent.)

Mr. REID: Yes; the fiscally piebald party. (Laughter.)

Mr. PAGE: Don't call us piebald after your performance. (Labour cheers and laughter.)

Mr. REID: Well, then, we will say the "yes no" party. (Loud laughter.)

Mr. HALL (N.S.W.) foreshadowed a further amendment, to the effect that the duty on British wire netting be reduced to 5 per cent., and on that of foreign manufacture to 10 per cent. (Cheers.) He hoped that this amendment would meet with the approval of the Government. (Hear, hear.) The output of Lysaght's factory was valued at £10,000 per week, while the weekly wages amounted to £700, and he therefore thought that they would be treating this firm very handsomely by allowing the measure of protection which he proposed. (Hear, hear.) That amount would be ample to compensate the local manufacturer for the difference in wages in Australia and other parts of the world. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. JOHNSON: There is a 20 per cent. natural protection, anyhow. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. HALL: There was a natural protection of 5 per cent. by reason of the fact that owing to the imported product being very tightly rolled the cost of erecting was much greater than that of erecting the locally produced netting. The member for Calare would hear him out that colonial wire netting was preferred to the imported.

Mr. THOMAS BROWN: That is correct. The local article is preferred to the imported, but it is all a matter of price.

Mr. W. H. IRVINE (Vic.) said that it was difficult to come to a decision as to the duty which should be placed on wire netting until they had agreed as to the amount of protection to be given to the wire, which was the raw material. (Hear, hear.) He, therefore, asked the Treasurer whether it was his intended to press the proposed duty of 12½ per cent. on wire.

The TREASURER: I cannot say whether it will be lowered or removed.

Mr. W. H. IRVINE said he felt very strongly in favour of the encouragement of the iron and wire making industry, and was inclined to strongly support the proposals of the Government either by a duty or bounty. (Hear, hear.) He would also like to grant substantial protection to the wire netting industry, but if the House eventually placed a duty on the raw material it would be necessary to increase the duty on wire netting. Members were, therefore, in a difficulty.

The TREASURER: If we take off the duty on wire we shall probably give encouragement for its production by a bounty.

Mr. W. H. IRVINE: Should members accept the Government's proposals at once they might later on find themselves logically compelled to increase the duty on wire netting by 8 or 10 per cent. over and above that now proposed. (Hear, hear.) However, he thought the proposition that would best meet the case was 10 per cent. on foreign manufactures, and 5 per cent. on the product of the United Kingdom. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. COON (Vic.) said he would support the highest possible duty.

Mr. FAIRBAIRN (Vic.) urged that the matter of wire netting was not a fiscal question, and should not be dealt with on protectionist lines. ("Hear, hear," and laughter.) He thought that 10 per cent., with a preference of 5 per cent. on British manufactures over and above the duty which might be placed on raw material, would be a fair thing.

Mr. JOHNSON (N.S.

NEW SOUTH WALES PARLIAMENT.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10.

The President took the chair at 11.55 a.m., and with the members present proceeded to the State Governor's apartments at the Chief Secretary's Department, where the address in Reply, passed on the previous day, was presented to his Excellency.

On returning,

The PRESIDENT reported having presented the Address in Reply, and his Excellency's acknowledgment thereof.

He also mentioned that nominations of members for election to the Public Works Committee must be lodged by the 23rd inst.

SESSIONAL ORDERS AND COMMITTEES.

On the motion of the Vice-President of the Executive Council, the Standing Orders, Library, Printing, and Refreshment Room Committees for the present session were chosen.

It was also ordered that the House meet for business on Wednesday and Thursday in each week, Government business taking precedence on Wednesdays, and general business on Thursdays.

CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEES.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL moved,—"That the Honourable William Joseph Trickett be Chairman of Committees of the whole House." He said Mr. Trickett's occupancy of the chair had given entire satisfaction throughout several Parliaments, and that being so they would be pleased to reappoint him. (Cheers.) Mr. Trickett had been in no wise inferior in his devotion to duty to any of his predecessors.

The motion was agreed to, and Mr. Trickett acknowledged the appointment.

ADJOURNMENT.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL moved,—"That in consequence of certain action pending in another branch of the Legislature this House at its rising adjourn to Wednesday, October 23, at 3 o'clock p.m."

The motion was agreed to, and the Council at half-past 12 adjourned to the date named.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

The Speaker took the chair at half-past 4 o'clock.

NO-CONFIDENCE DEBATE.

The debate on the Address in Reply, and the amendment moved thereon by Mr. M'Gowen, was resumed.

Mr. O'SULLIVAN said he would vote against the Government. He looked upon it as the most reactionary one which had ever ruled in New South Wales. The late election was notable for two things—first, the wonderful increase in strength of the Labour party; and secondly, the sweeping-out of the narrow-minded and puritanical members who used to back up the late Premier in his puritanical legislation. In 23 electorates, where the Sporting League had branches, the narrow-minded puritans had been swept out, but the president of the Sporting League, and the vice-president, had been elected. The Government, which went to the country 55 strong, came back 43 strong, or excluding the Speaker, 42 strong. The Opposition had increased its strength from 25 to 32. The Government, by a majority of half-a-dozen members, whom it opposed at the last elections, and who could not be relied on in an unexpected emergency. (Opposition cheers.) During the five years the Lyne-See Government had been in office, there had not been a penny increase in taxation. The Carruthers Government had not been in office six months before there was an increase in taxation to the extent of £140,000. He explained what his Government had done in the way of saving starving stock by sending forage free to every country railway station. It had not been for the relief thus afforded to settlers, there would not be 60,000,000 sheep in the country to-day. He intended to give country members an opportunity to record their opinion on the Government's want of attention to this serious outlook, and he would move a motion to follow prior to the amendment moved by Mr. M'Gowen:—"And because, among the many other blunders, they have failed to take steps to afford relief to settlers on the soil, and the residents in the city and towns, in view of the possibilities of another year of drought." He regarded the wire-netting episode as a serious breach of law. The anti-gambling legislation was a machine for the manufacture of criminals. He condemned the Government for its inaction in reference to the matter of inebriates' homes, and he also thought it should have done something to prevent the undue raising of the price of meat. He saw no indication of a good land law being brought forward that would have the effect of really putting people on the land. The only good land law was one that would give five years' grace free of all payments to everyone who went upon the land. Something should be done to establish our fisheries on a sound basis, and more should be done to encourage prospecting for minerals and mining generally. He urged the importance of water conservation, but admitted that Mr. Lee had done some good work in this direction, and was building for himself a monument in the Barren Jack reservoir. To give the children of settlers in the back country an opportunity of obtaining the best education the State could give, he advocated a "chain of scholarships" reaching from the little bush school through the Superior Public schools and the High schools to the University. The necessity for passing a comprehensive way with forestry was pressing, and he trusted the Government would pursue a bold policy. It was time the Public school teachers were governed by an expert board distinct from the Public Service Board, who knew nothing about their profession. He advocated Government action with the view of opening up markets for Australian products. He agreed that a coalition could last a long time.

Mr. J. C. L. FITZPATRICK: It is only a little while ago that the hon. member narrowly escaped being in a coalition Ministry.

Mr. O'SULLIVAN: When was that?

Mr. FITZPATRICK: When Sir John See proposed to form a coalition.

Mr. O'SULLIVAN: Oh, no! They proposed to leave me out. (Laughter.) Continuing, he said that the Government had to thank for the votes of a few men whom they previously opposed, and when "something happened" the Government would find itself in a minority. He concluded by formally moving the amendment which he had foreshadowed.

Mr. NIELSEN contended that the Premier had enunciated a new doctrine when he said the leader of the Opposition could only rely on the Governor's speech for material on which to frame an indictment against the Ministry, and could not point to any act of maladministration on its part. He was astounded at such a doctrine, and could hardly realise that a Government should not be displaced except for maladministration. The Government had made many mistakes, and one was that it had refused to insert a clause in its Electoral Act which would enfranchise thousands of electors who were fully qualified. The Opposition wanted to remove taxation and disabilities from the struggling man, not from the man who received more than £200 a year; therefore it opposed the remission of the income tax. A BIG THING TO SAY—BUT IT'S TRUE.
MOST 63/- SUITS
ARE MADE IN A FACTORY.

That's right—most 63/- Suits are made in a factory. It's cheaper—that's why. In this case—you may get a pretty fair quality of material, but you will never get the cutting—the fit and the workmanship that WE give you in our 63/- Suits to order—hand-finished throughout—made on the premises.

Put that in your next pipe and smoke it—after we've still, write it on a week's supply of cuffs—it'll pay you to remember it anyhow!
